Sherman High School was more than the school building, the attendance card numbers, the maroon and white sports uniforms, or the school activities. Students were the humor, the warmth, the ideas, and the backbone that put it all together and made it unique and memorable.

Many of the events described in this book have happened before and will happen again, but never in exactly the same way. You were all there for this particular excitement, pain, confusion, and triumph. No matter what the results, the people who made it happen were more important than any of the happenings of 1982-83.

It took more than just an outstanding facility to produce a unified sense of pride in our school. The kind of pride that belonged to us never seemed to cease when the chips were down. If anything, it only encouraged when the walls closed in and goals seemed unreachable. Yet it took something extra to make it all work. Put simply, that was the student body. Hard work and frustration was bound to accompany each new project we attempted. But whether it was through group effort or individually, we made it all worthwhile.

Pride was poured with perfection into our education. Education was not just assignments and grades. It was a very precious substance — a necessity that enabled us to climb the ladder of success. By obtaining an education, we built a solid foundation for future endeavors, and at the same time, gained valuable experience preparing us for independence.

Self-respect was important in communication with ourselves and others. In the competitive society, we constantly strove for new areas in which to gain self-confidence. It could be seen in the ability to operate a computer, support of an athletic team or class officer candidate, the clothes we wore, or simply being proud of our school. Whatever the activity, we struggled through the hard times to discover a better understanding of ourselves.

Achievement was a major mark of SHS students. Various forms of achievement existed on campus. Just making it through the school year without many problems was a big accomplishment.

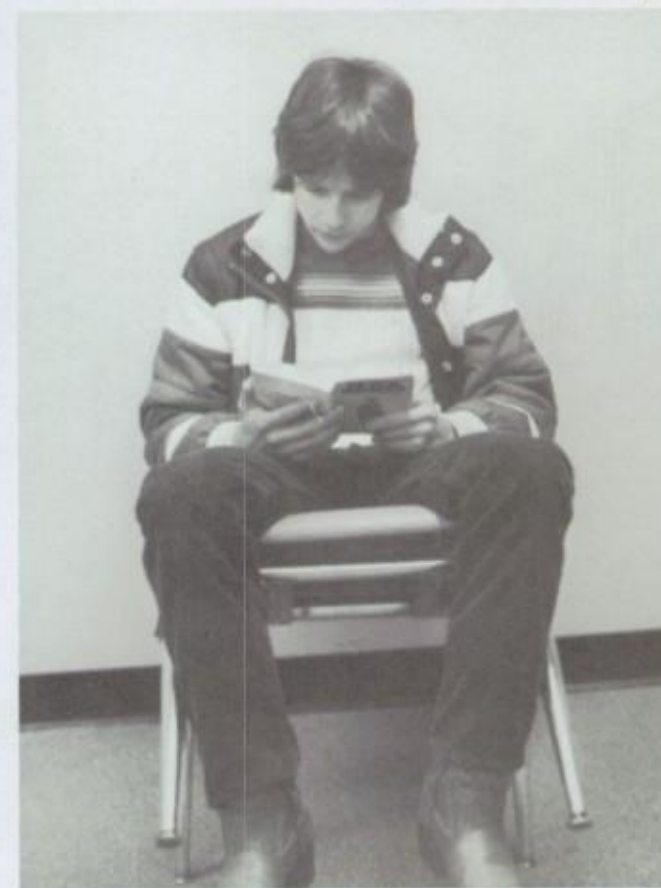

Many of us studied to achieve good report cards. Sometimes the homework seemed never-ending, as well as the cafeteria lines. Others emphasized on social life achievement. Each of us reached for success in some area. Competition was strong between us. Athletic teams faced each challenge with winning enthusiasm. Intramurals provided us with an individual sport activity.

An exciting student body is what SHS is all about. Interesting projects and extracurricular undertakings livened up sometimes boring school days. As monotonous as the days may have been, the Student Council often united with school administration to come up with some pretty exhilarating activities.

Homecoming, MORP, Toga party and the Christmas party were just a few of the functions sponsored by Sherman High. SHS has always had a reputation of high academic standards mixed with a wide variety of activities, and this is what makes it one of the best and most successful schools in Texas.

The beginning of a school year is one of anticipation and anxiety for both students and faculty, and 1982 was no exception; but after the books were put away there was always time for fun.

At Sherman High School, friendship played an important role in the students' everyday life. Laughing and talking with friends during breaks was as much a part of the routine as going to English. Friends provided the encouragement we needed to keep climbing the ladder. Everywhere on campus, the freeness of their activities and the sincerity of smiles expressed the closeness among classmates.

From student relationships came many fads, activities, and memorable events. A variety of social groups also formed. We could be ourselves around our friends, knowing that they would accept us for what we were, not what others expected us to be.

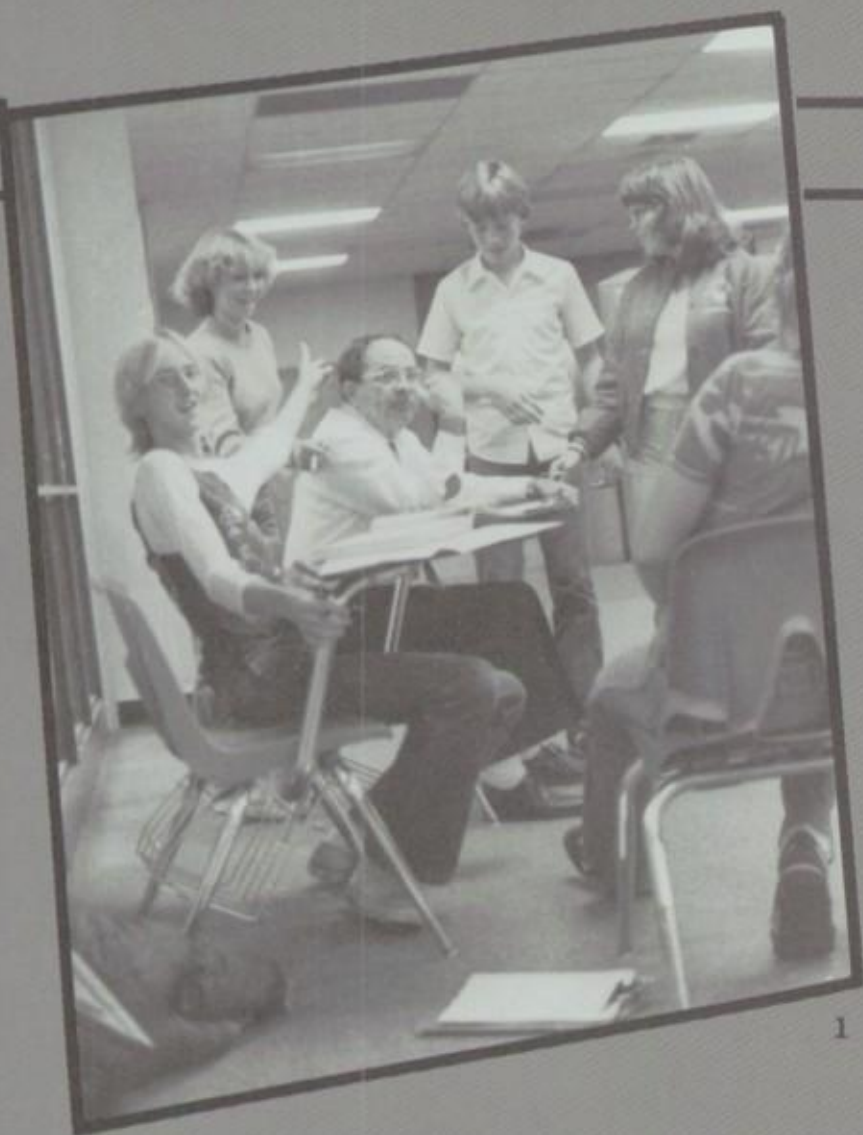

Friends were very special people. We all had our own interpretation of the meaning of friendship. However, it is clear we all needed friends to share in our victories and defeats and keep us in good humor. At SHS a friend was simply someone to study with, or share in a small miracle, or someone who helped us out when trouble was present.

Friends were people who were aware we were different, but managed to make us feel comfortable with ourselves. We needed our "alter egos" to share our comedies and tragedies with. To build and grow in friendship and to learn to trust in others was good for our mentalities. Creating memories with friends was something we could learn from and cherish. No matter what the case, friends are what made it all bearable, they helped to make the good times great and the bad times better.

Each lifestyle attracts people who share common interests, whether it be in academics, sports, social activities, or just relaxing. By joining together with a group expressing the same interests, cliques and fads were created.

One fad that came into play was the "preppie look." The prep syndrome consisted of everything from khaki pants to topsiders. Other items of the fad were Cheenos, dockside shoes, argyle socks, changeable belts, oxford shirts, ribbon ties, Lacrosse Izods, and polo shirts.

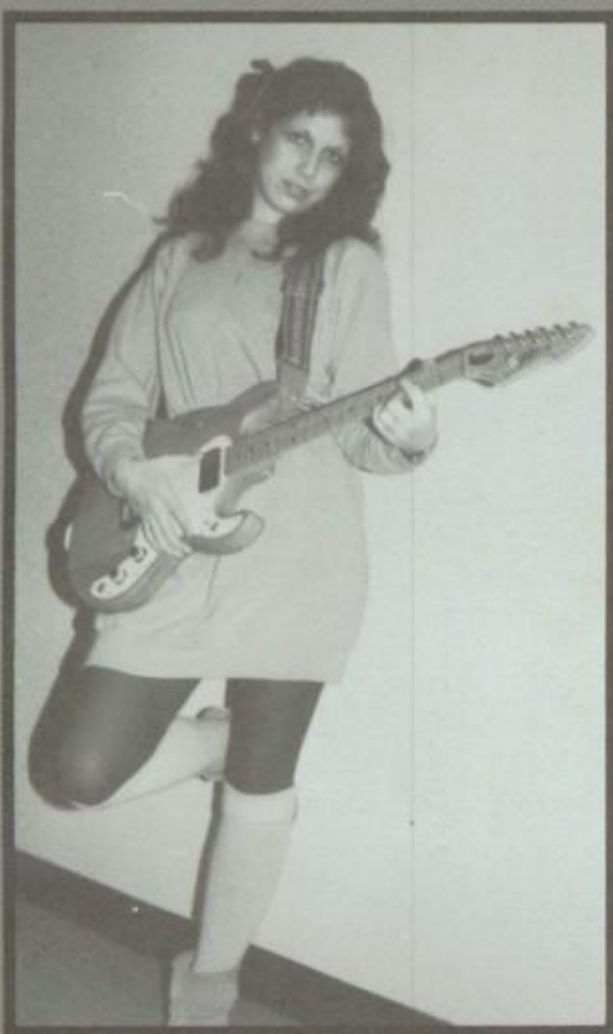

The British punk craze hit home with many SHS students. The style was the premier item that affected the student body. The punk scene was typified by fatigues, colored hair spray, safety pin earrings, tight-legged pants, and jungle print shirts. It also initiated the black, bronze, gold, and silver fashion boom.

Some could be seen wearing outfits a far cry from punk, but that was the students' idea of new wave. Others clad themselves in shirts with band emblems and buttons. A few even showed their support of new wave by short hair cuts.

The western scene was still holding strong in fashion competition with cowboy hats, boots, jeans, plaid shirts, and suede or leather vests. The sportswear scene included concert T-shirts, Ocean Pacific ski and surf shirts, sweatsuits, and members only jackets. The sophisticated look also brought back a traditional look, with tuxedo wear, pleated pants, tapered skirts, colored hose, flat shoes, and sport coats.

A blast from the past fit in with a uniform lifestyle, with play-it-again knickers and mini-skirts enjoying a kinky comeback. On the flip side were surgical greens, leg warmers, and army fatigues.

Other fashion waves indating the campus were accessories. Bandannas were popular and versatile, doubling as headbands, belts, and neckties. Interest in ties was renewed with narrow-multi-colored and bow ties serving as big items. Many of the stylish fashions we wore added spunk to the school, but somewhere, there is another fashion yet to be discovered.

DEPARTMENTS

Art offers variety of creative experience

Stained glass, water colors, ink and pencil, and pastel colors are all a part of art.

Sherman High offers Art I-IV. Art I and II work on things such as texture rubbings, assembling designs, ink drawings, and drawing portraits. "Art is a very creative subject," commented Melissa Griffin, sophomore.

Art III and IV students are required to pay for their own supplies and are able to sell some of their art work. "Some people think that Art is a blow-off class, but it really isn't," stated Deanna Denison, junior.

Hall exhibits displaying various types of art were held in November and May. During the year Art students designed programs and posters and gave Billy Bob Bearcat a fresh coat of paint.

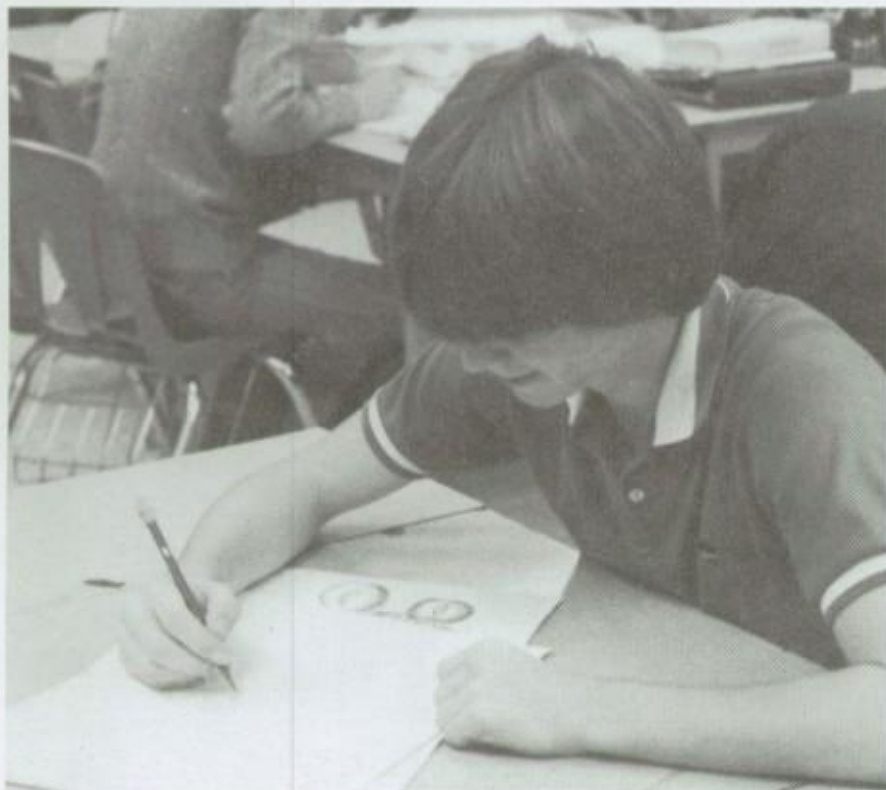

"It was the aim of the Art department to give students a variety of experiences in artist expressions and to encourage better workmanship in the finished product," stated Mrs. Nell Hannah, instructor.

Business offers good preparation for future

The Business department at SHS can help students prepare for the business world we live in. "My typing skills will always give me something to fall back on in the future," commented Cindy Collins, junior.

The Business department offers Shorthand, Typing I and II, Accounting, Record Keeping, General Business, one semester of Business Communication, and one semester of Business Law.

Business Law Classes experience debates, guest speakers, and a mock trial.

All classes prove to be very rewarding for someone interested in the business field. "The classes are fun and interesting and give the students the experience needed to begin in this field," stated Mrs. Bernice Johnson, department leader.

Students develop oral communications skills

The various Speech and Drama classes at SHS offered a variety of outlets for students interested in cultivating their skills in communication.

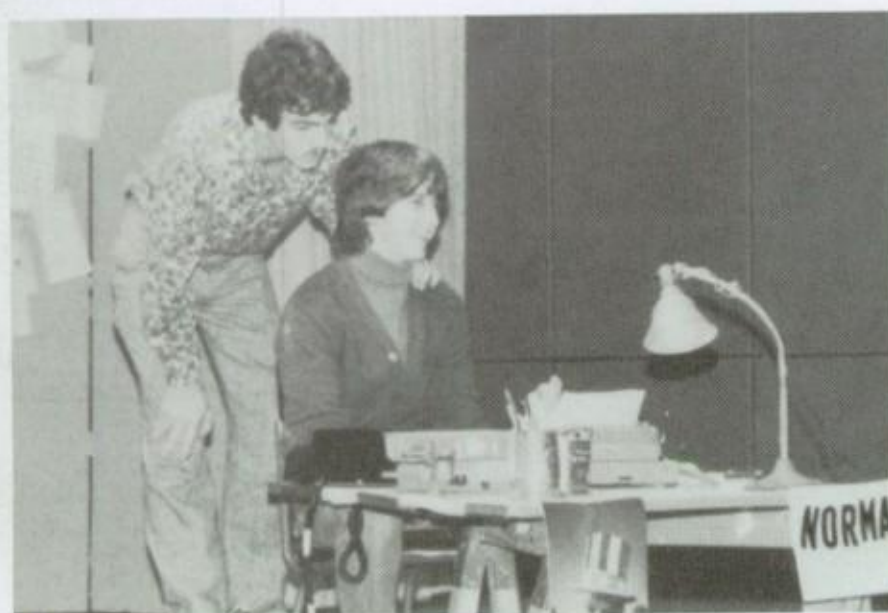

Speech, drama, acting, oral interpretation, public speaking, dramatic evaluation, mass media concepts, and other various types of communication skills are taught in drama.

The first priority of each speech and drama class was to develop whatever communication skills each student possessed. "I liked drama, it gave me a chance to be myself and I loved doing it," commented Eugene Brown, sophomore.

Production was another important factor of drama. It provided a vehicle for the various talented students to display their talents. "Artistic acting and directing was stressed, but discipline, hard work, and knowledge associated with working backstage was also taught," stated Mr. Robert Watson, instructor.

English stresses basic reading skills

The English department at SHS is designed to give students help in grammar, vocabulary and writing.

The department added vocabulary and the keeping of a composition folder for each student to the curriculum this year. The results should indicate improvement by the time this year's freshmen are seniors.

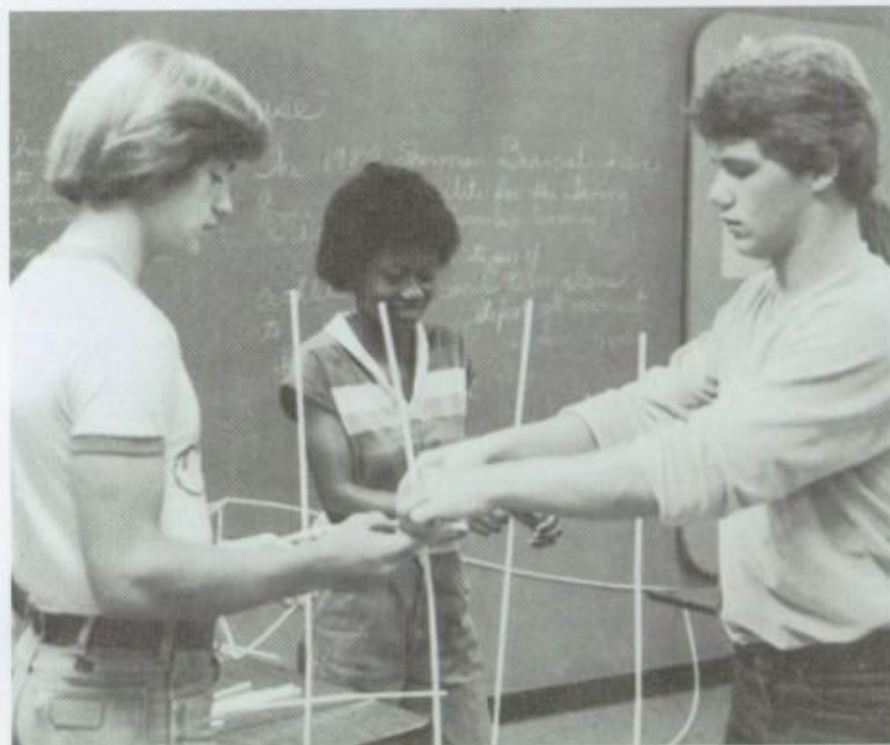

Reading skills were also stressed in this year's program.

The English department has special activities with guest speakers and special literature films.

"English is an exciting and challenging course," commented Kris Roe, freshman.

"English wouldn't be as much fun without the special activities," commented Dawn Watkins, freshman.

"The program has gone very good this year. The new teachers have done an excellent job," stated English instructor Mrs. Karen Kays.

Bi-lingual imagination, stresses communication

Imagination! That's what foreign language teachers used to make their classes more interesting and alive.

Sherman High offers Latin, Spanish, and French. Each language has a club to add to the learning process. "I like Spanish; it's more interesting than I thought it would be," said Karen Fogle, sophomore.

Regardless of what language an SHS student participated in, it increased his or her knowledge of communication. "I've enjoyed Latin because it has helped me to enlarge my vocabulary and I've learned where all of our words came from," commented Kim Buckingham, senior.

Because SHS is affluent in all aspects of academics, it has developed bi-lingual endeavors. The Foreign Language department cared for the needs of college bound students and students who were tired of plain English.

In addition to the study of grammar, the students were encouraged to study the lifestyles of these respective languages. Language not only reflects communication, but a viable, real way of life.

1. Mrs. Ida Hudgins discusses the Spanish assignment with Janet Froese, Rhonda Walters, and LaTanya Dorsey. 2. Nancy Gallegos, Ray Bell, Julie Bednarz, Cynthia Melugin, and Renea Kaats sing Christmas carols in Latin. 3. Mrs. Bobbie Gohlke assists Paul Miller with his assignment. 4. Mrs. Anna Hinkle assists Brian Pitman and Bruce Conway with a Latin certamen. 5. Mrs. Karen Kays helps Wendy King with her French assignment.

Homemaking students set goals

Homemaking students acquired skills and knowledge necessary for feeding a family and managing a home wisely. Emphasis was also placed on child care and development and becoming a wise consumer.

Home and Family Living classes included personality and character development, clarification of students' values, male and female roles in society, dating and mate selection, and problems in parenting and family life.

One activity enjoyed by students in Home and Family Living classes was a mock semi-formal wedding including a reception.

"I enjoyed Home and Family class, it was one of the best classes I've taken," commented Jimmy Elston, senior.

Each student was also required to set a personal goal and make plans to reach that goal. Students evaluated these results. "This process helped students to gain self-confidence and undertake challenges in the future," stated Mrs. Betty Brawley, homemaking teacher.

Industrial arts strengthens imagination

The Sherman High School Industrial Arts department has the reputation for turning out excellent students who enjoy drawing intricate blue prints for houses, cabinets, or just about anything.

Industrial Arts students rely on imagination for their drawings. "I enjoy drafting, it is helping me pursue my career as an architect," stated John Pritchett, junior.

Woodworking students learn basic furniture construction, and General Metals introduces students to making sketches, learning proper use of hand tools, and reading drawings. "Drafting has been thoroughly enjoyable. I have progressively acquired drafting skills, commented Ricky Dunn, senior.

Mechanical Drafting gives students an understanding of the basics of drafting. Students learn to visualize in three dimensions, to develop and strengthen their technical imagination, to think precisely, and to read and write the language of industry. They also gain experience in making working drawings.

Deadline plays major class activity role

"We've got to meet our deadlines," is a line often used in the confusion and pressure of the Journalism department.

"Deadline plays an important role in the life of a journalist, because if a deadline isn't met, the story won't be published," stated Paula Morgan, Journalism instructor.

Journalism, generally considered an easy class, in truth takes hard work and determination. "Journalism takes time and effort, but it's rewarding to see my story in print," stated Dana Dowell, Journalism I student.

Math application useful in fast-paced world

Mathematics programs of the 1980's should involve students in problem solving. Problem solving involves applying mathematics to the real world, serving the theory and practice of current and emerging sciences, and resolving issues that extend the frontiers of the mathematical sciences themselves.

It was the math department's commitment to create an environment in the school such that each student may achieve mathematical literacy and may exercise, under proper guidance, the option to continue or to terminate the formal study of mathematics.

From fundamentals of mathematics, algebra, consumer math, geometry, trigonometry, analytics, and calculus, the emphasis within the math program, stressed problem solving.

"Algebra II is a challenging and fun course," commented Patti Roe, junior.

"Students should be able to search for and identify patterns, analyze given problems, verify findings, and compute," stated Robert M. DeBerry, math instructor.

Musical endeavors enrich students

Interested in music? Sherman High offers choir, orchestra, and band to enrich each individual both creatively and academically.

The SHS band has developed a style of performance which has received superior ratings in UIL competition. The band supports the Bearcats every Friday night at football games, and along with choir and orchestra, performs at contests and concerts for the remainder of the year. Rhonda Williams, junior commented, "Band has been fun. We've really worked hard, and it paid off when we got a one rating in contest."

Choir remained busy all year with spring and fall concerts, Christmas concerts, and UIL competition. "I have enjoyed being in choir this year. The trips and performances have been exciting," stated Troy Werner, senior.

Orchestra participated in concerts, UIL competition, All Region Orchestra, and performed for the Sherman Musical Arts. "Orchestra is one way to meet other students with the same musical interests," stated LaTanya Dorsey, junior.

Physical education keeps students fit

The Physical Education department offered students activities that helped them stay physically fit.

PE, Driver's Ed, and Health were all part of the Physical education department. "In PE I am able to participate in different team sports while trying to stay in shape," commented Pam Jacobs, junior.

Health classes studied the human anatomy along with health care. They had presentations by guest speakers on physical and mental care.

Driver's Ed helped students develop their driving skills and get their long awaited driver's license. "Driver's Ed was a lot of fun, but it was work too," commented John Lowery. Driver's Ed benefitted those who allowed themselves to practice driving procedures," stated Jean Kuhns, instructor.

1. Mike Desaloms, Lisa Ford, and Debra Wallis get ready for drivers training. 2. Donnie Stephens practices mouth to mouth on "Resusi-Anne." 3. Julie Bednarz and Pat Mallowney listen to Mr. Ed Hunt give a health lecture. 4. Gina Maddera takes a soccer test in PE. 5. Students play Volleyball in PE.

Library, office aides earn practical skills

Upon entering the office at Sherman High the first person encountered might be the smiling face of an office aide.

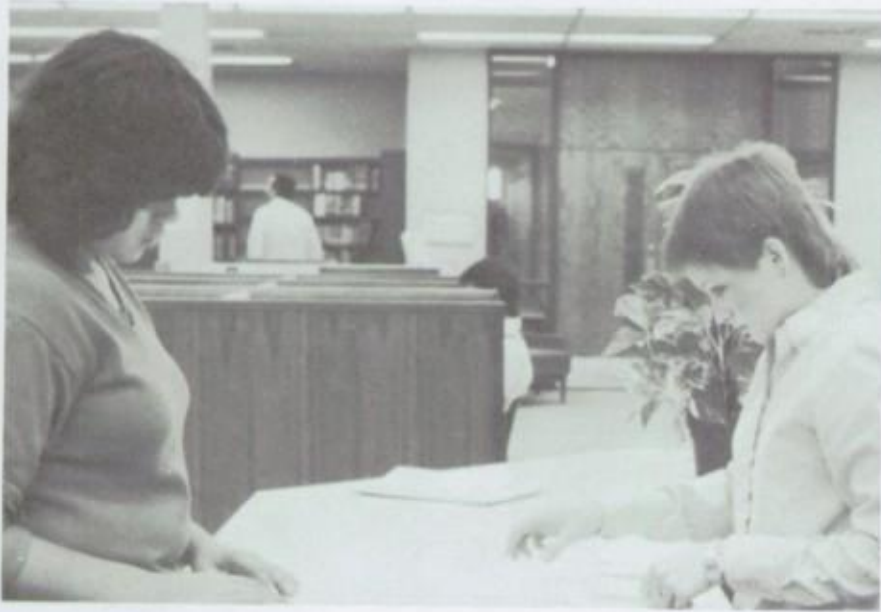

The office and school relies heavily on the office aides. They learn to take over and do their jobs well, without being told.

Taking attendance cards, answering phone calls, delivering messages, and filing are just a few of the many office aide jobs.

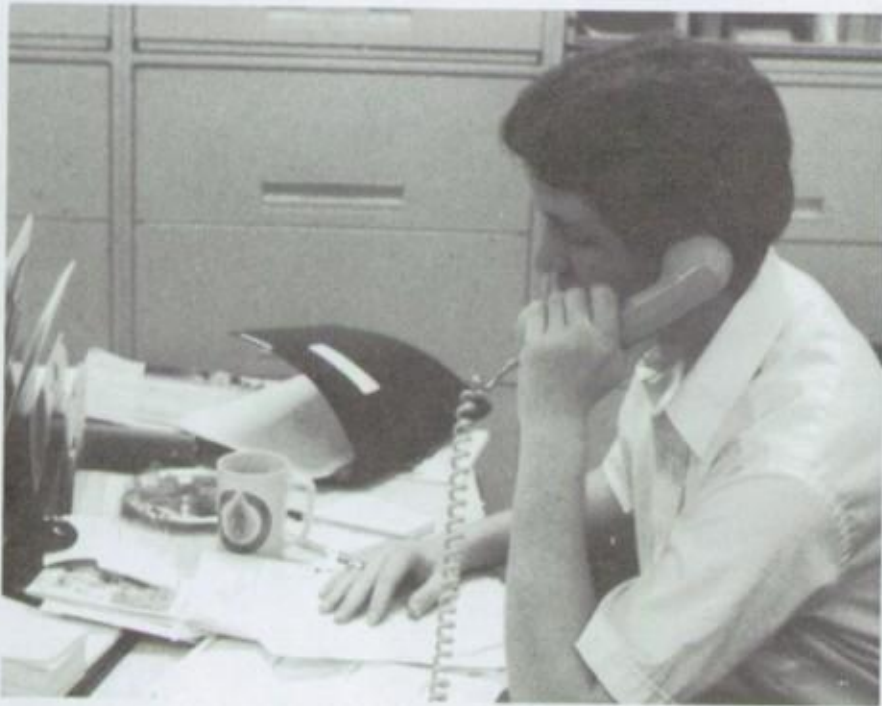

"We always have good dependable students, we couldn't do without them," commented Mrs. Pat Crow, secretary.

Working in the office gives students practical experience for later self confidence. Andy Olmstead, senior, stated, "Working in the office is enjoyable. All the office staff is so helpful and friendly."

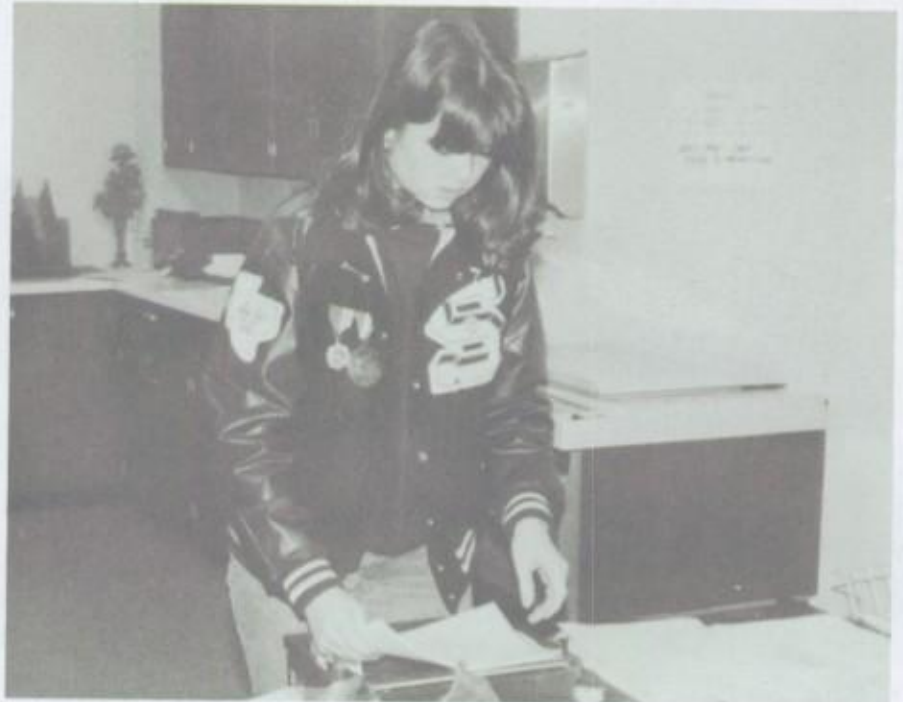

Library assistants helped students to check out books and the kept records of newspapers and magazines. They also set up various window displays throughout the year.

Staff work rewarding and worthwhile

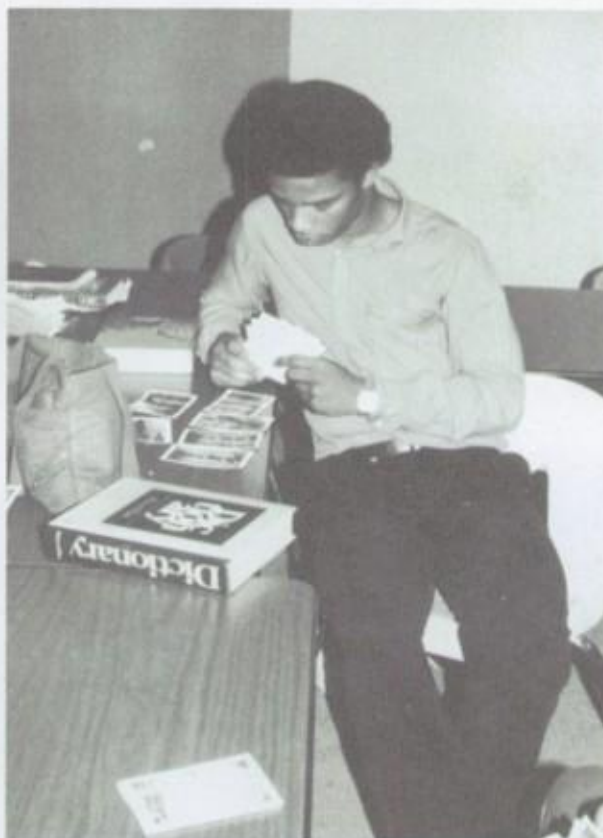

Putting out a yearbook requires a lot of patience and persistence. Most of the work has to be done repeatedly before it is perfected. Despite all the monotonous work, when the book comes out and you look at a page and say, "I did it," it all becomes worthwhile.

This year's staff was relatively new, with only three returning staffers. Staffers had to learn the basics and recognize what appeals to the students. "The things the students learn working on staff can help them during their lifetime," stated Mrs. Paula Morgan, advisor. Tracey Johnson commented, "Publications is a fun and rewarding class."

Science fulfills requirements

The Science department offered a variety of courses designed to fulfill the requirements for graduation and develop an adequate background for those students desiring to attend college.

The department includes Physical Science, Biology regular and applied, Chemistry, and Physics.

At the present time there is an increasing gap in the fields of science and technology.

"One of our goals was to stimulate students' interest in these very rewarding fields in order to fill this void," stated Mr. Curtis Gray, department leader.

The excitement of discovery through investigation and experimentation was a side-light to entering the world of science. These aspects enhanced the mental maturity necessary to function in our technological society.

"I enjoyed Biology. It was an exciting and interesting class," commented Missy Hickman, freshman.

1. Kevin Sheren, Rodney Shives, Sherry Blackburn and Gwen Jones listen to Mr. Stephen Rogers give a lecture. 2. Mr. Bill Estes focuses the microscope for Tonya Mack. 3. Social studies accents creativity

American History, Government, Psychology, World History, Geography, and Economics are all a part of the Social Studies department of SHS.

"We have had a very active year," commented Mrs. Linda Hayes, department leader. Social Studies are subjects in which a student can show his creativity. Students worked on special projects ranging from colorful maps and posters to three dimensional models. Students designed skits, plays, and even games based on television shows.

Colby Randel, sophomore said, "I'm glad I took history this year because I've learned about the past as well as the present."

Social Studies courses are required for three years in order for a student to graduate. Students acquire knowledge of the Civil War, the World Wars and up through modern functions of the American Government. They also learn where places are located and the events which happened there. Included is all the information needed to turn a student into a well rounded citizen.

Vocational students develop job skills

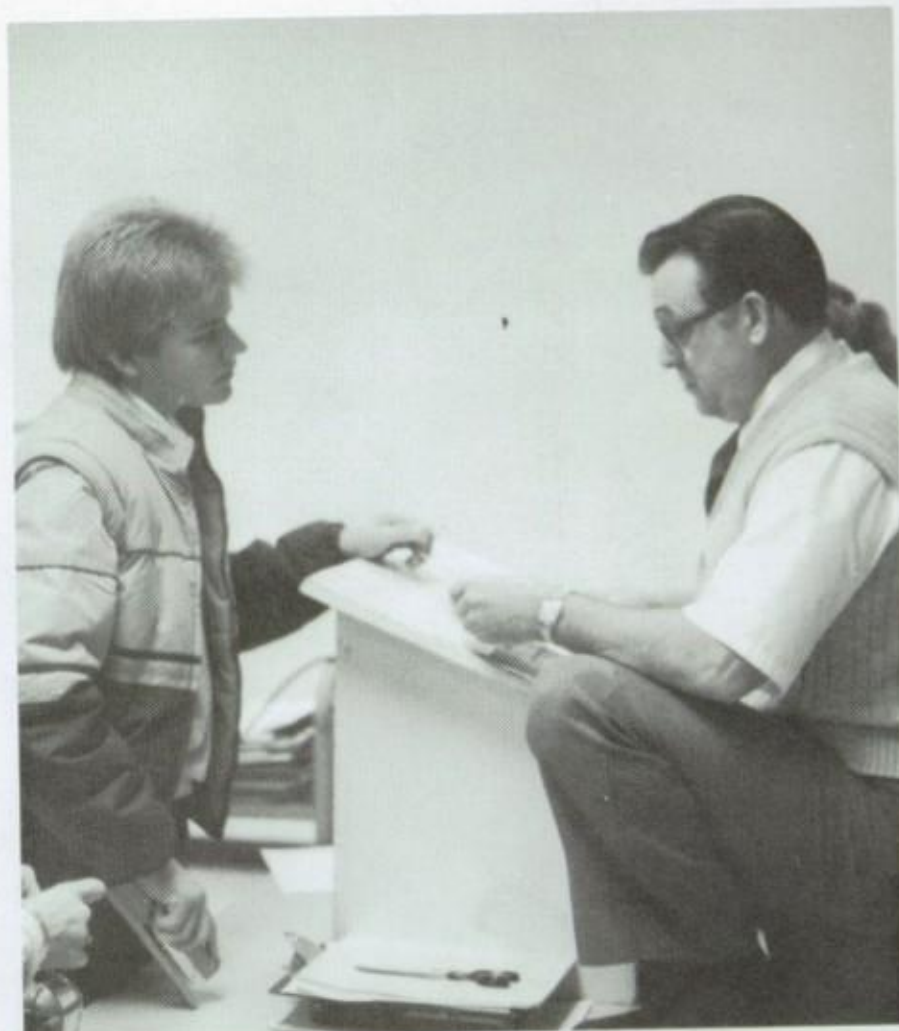

From learning the anatomy of a hog, to giving a perm, the Sherman High School Vocational Department offered a variety of vocational programs to meet the varied needs and interests of students.

Students who were interested in pursuing special skills or interests through on the job training had six co-op education programs from which to choose. These included: Ag co-op, Marketing and Distributive Education, Health Occupation Education, Occupational Homemaking, Industrial Cooperative Training, and Vocational Office Education. These courses were opened only to juniors and seniors.

Three hour Pre-Employment lab classes were offered in the following areas: Auto Mechanics, Building Trades, Cosmetology, Vocational Drafting, Machine Shop and Welding, and TV Technology. These classes are opened to sophomore, juniors, and seniors. "Cosmetology has really been a learning experience," commented Angie Northcutt, junior.

Other Vocational classes included: Production Agriculture, Consumer and Homemaking Education, Office Education Lab, Marketing and Distributive Education Lab. "Building trades gives me a sense of accomplishment. It's a great class," said Mike Bazan.

Vocational students were preparing themselves for continued education at a post secondary level or for entry into the labor market using the skills and knowledge they had gained in high school as a bases for starting their career.

ACTIVITIES

Steady practice earns band superior rating

For the first time in five years, the Sherman High School Bearcat Band succeeded in earning a superior rating at the UIL Marching Contest.

In band, students experienced the joy of making music, discovered and developed their own musical talent, and learned to understand the fundamentals of music.

Even those students and faculty that were not included in the art of performing music and making a half-time show, derived a great deal of enjoyment from the band's performances.

The band council planned a Christmas party with a hay ride, and lots of hot dogs.

The symphonic Band presented a variety of Christmas music for area elementary schools.

Junior Tracey Beaver commented, "I think band was a challenge for some and fun for others."

The band officers this year were, Janet Froese, president; Rex Grigg, vice president; Susan Morse, secretary, and David Senor, publicity chairman, Mr. Lee South and Mr. Richard Knoll, were directors.

Motivation promotes student productions

Considering their hectic schedules, choir members found time to sell candles, sausage and cheese, attend the A Cappella swim, and an officers' retreat at David Layman's farm.

What a busy schedule they did have. Contributing to the holidays and special occasions, choir students carolled throughout the halls before Christmas vacation and also took part in singing valentines.

In the winter season some choir students participated in Area Auditions at Austin College, All-State Choir, UIL Solo and Ensemble at Allen High School, and UIL Concert and Sight Reading contests.

Choir officers this year were: David Layman, president; Sally Nicholson, vice president; Jennifer Shaw, secretary; Kellie Daniel, librarian; Larry Lynch, assistant librarian; Suzanne Nelson, historian; Debbie Markl and Princeton Williams, spirit committee co-chairpersons. Mr. Duane Gohlke is director.

Thespians broadens actors' creativity

The International Thespians Society is the Theatre Club at SHS. Membership was attained through working in school productions.

The aim of the Thespians organization is to promote theatre at all levels. Productions, work shops, theatre tournaments and monthly meetings all helped achieve this goal. Rex Grigg senior, commented, "Being a member of the high school Thespians troupe has given me an opportunity to broaden my creativity as an actor." The people in this organization represent a good cross section of SHS students. I feel my experiences with these people will stay with me forever and I know my life in the theatre has been influenced by those experiences."

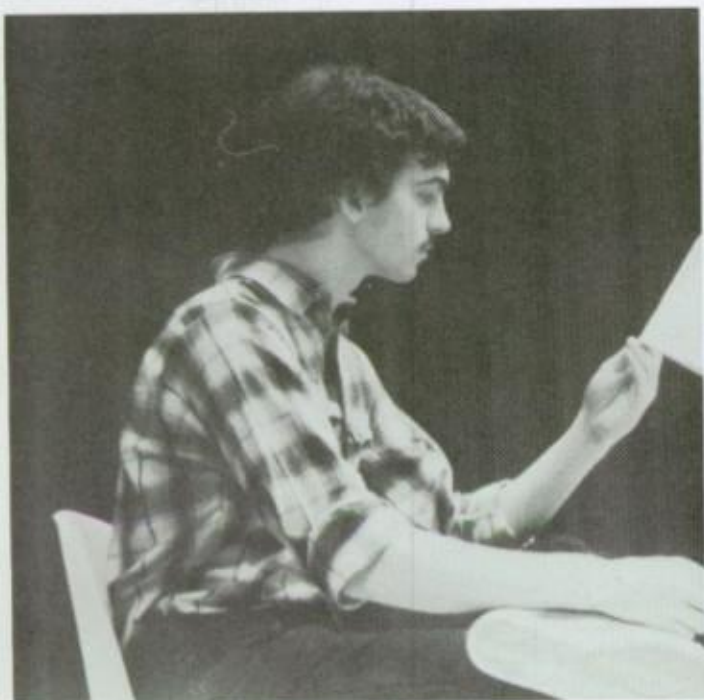

Thespiian officers were, Beth Larson, president; Rex Grigg, vice president; Jennie Jones, secretary; Melinda Low, historian; and David Lincecum, theatre technician. Mr. Robert Watson was sponsor.

JCL members sell candy to raise funds

The Junior Classical League started their year off by hosting a "Get-Acquainted" party for club members in the home of Mrs. Anna Hinkle, JCL sponsor.

Members eagerly participated in selling candy and students placed their earnings into the club's fund. Mrs. Hinkle stated, "The money would help to pay added expenses at JCL competitions."

The annual Christmas party was held at Pizza Inn, where students exchanged gifts and enjoyed eating pizza.

The month of January found students preparing themselves for an area competition in Duncanville and afterwards participating in San Antonio.

Officers met off and on for the remainder of the year and planned various activities such as a Progressive dinner party, which was held in the homes of members, and a "Liberalia" to celebrate all JCL members' birthdays. Students ended their year by hosting a Roman Banquet.

JCL officers were Ricky Griffith, president; Dale Rodgers, vice president; Debra Reutelhuber, secretary; and Cynthia Melugin, treasurer.

PASF welcomes foreign exchange students

Pan American Student Forum started the year off by traditionally welcoming the arrival of the new foreign exchange students at a reception.

As a fund raiser, members of PASF sold candy and donated their earnings to the club's fund.

One of this year's highlights for PASF students was a field trip to Annie's Santa Fe restaurant in Dallas where club members enjoyed eating Mexican food.

For the remainder of the year PASF students prepared themselves for the annual Foreign Language Weekend which was hosted by Austin College. Club members were to participate in categories such as oral interpretation, poetry, reading comprehension, and dance.

PASF students brought an end to active and festive year at their end of the year party.

Officers for PASF were: Kerri Taylor, president; Janet Froese, vice-president; Renee Ayers, secretary; Rodney Roe, treasurer; and Kim Keene, reporter. Sponsor was Mrs. Ida Hudgins.

French Club has active year

Parlez-vous français? That's what somebody in the French club might have asked when questioned about the French traditions.

This exotic bunch of people started off the year by planning a get-together party at Pizza Inn. Students in Mrs. Karen Kay's French I class celebrated Christmas with a festival of French foods. Each member contributed their own specialty.

In order for students to compete in the Symposium Foreign Language Contest held at Austin College and San Angelo, members sold candy during the spring season. The money was also used for the club's annual trip to a French restaurant in Dallas and a spring party.

Officers this year were: Tom Bedsole, president; Tim Wilder, vice president; Cindy Blanton, secretary; and Dana Dowell, treasurer. Sponsor of the French club was Mrs. Bobbie Gohlke.

FHA contributes to community service

Throughout the school year, Future Homemakers of America members participated in a year filled with fun and excitement.

FHA students opened their year by installing newly elected officers at a formal ceremony which concluded with an open house reception for guests and club members.

Members of FHA sponsored a money making project by selling Tom Wat products, offering a service to the community.

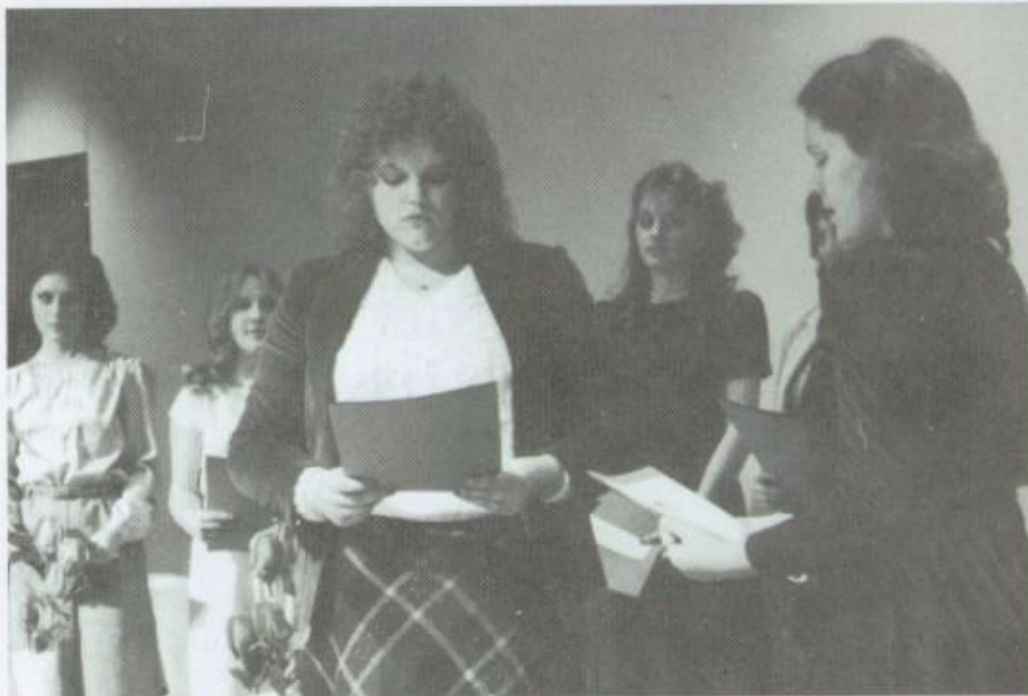

Students hosted a friendship, "pot luck," dinner and scavenger hunt for a neighboring school which enabled club members to exchange ideas and activities.

A contribution was made to the Sherman Development Center so that persons there could enjoy a merrier Christmas.

Other FHA activities included a program on self-defense which featured Sheriff Jack Driscoll, an open house for the consumer and homemaking education advisory committee, and entering projects at the Loy Lake exhibit.

Two delegates were chosen to attend the area contest in Fort Worth and state contest in Dallas.

FHA officers were Hope Sims, president; Lisa Todd, programs; Teresa Koschelew and Diane Douglas, projects; Renea Ayers, recreation; Lori Williams, publications; Mary Wiley, secretary; Julie Ricks, treasurer; Mickey Myatt, historian; Diane Daugherty, parliamentarian; and Chris Snodgrass, sergeant-at-arms. FTA host taco pile-up dinner

Future Teachers of America hosted several activities for the 1982-83 school year.

FTA members got their year under way by electing and installing officers for the new school year.

Students sponsored money making projects by selling senior T-shirts which featured the names of graduating seniors.

A Christmas party was sponsored for children of the Grayson County Society for Crippled Children.

Other FTA activities included a progressive dinner party, a taco pile-up dinner held in the home of Stephanie Schweizer, a banana split party held at Rebecca Olivares, and a Mexican dinner in which the Denison FTA chapter were guests.

FTA students met each month to exchange ideas and plan activities.

Members ended their year by holding a banquet.

NHS more than just scholastic ability

Contrary to popular belief, scholastic ability is not the only criterion for membership in the National Honor Society. The members have high goals demonstrated through their tradition of "service, leadership, character, and scholarship."

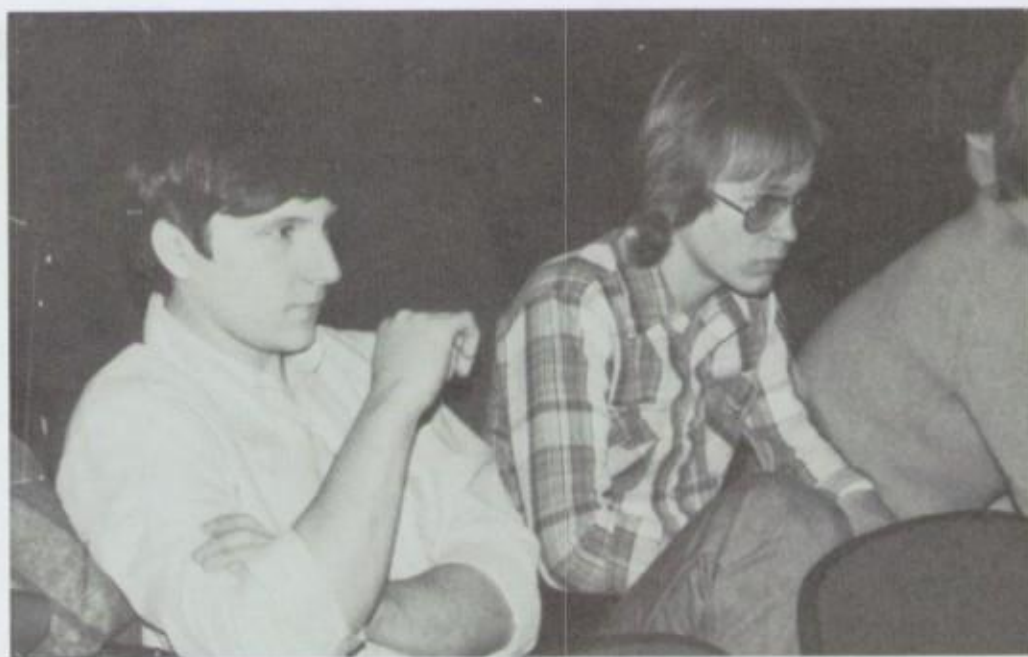

Seniors and Juniors who are inducted into NHS must maintain a 4.0 grade average. Potential members must have at least ten honors classes throughout high school.

Marsha Krajewski, senior, commented, "NHS is an honor for all the hard work I've done."

Officers for this year were Sally Nicholson, president; Marianna Desaloms, vice president; Marsha Krajewski, secretary; and Charlie Mayer, treasurer. Sponsors were Mrs. Karen Kays and Mr. John Needham.

Mu Alpha Theta promotes high scholastic abilities

Mu Alpha Theta was sponsored by the Mathematical Association of America and the National Council of Mathematics. The organization's purpose is to promote scholarship and enjoyment and understanding of mathematics among high school seniors. The club was formed to develop interest in mathematics.

Club members must have three semesters of algebra, and two of geometry or their equivalent, and one semester of more advanced mathematics.

Members of the club sparkled the cafeteria by decorating the school Christmas tree. Ornament contributions were made by each club to make the tree look its best.

Combined efforts benefit students, entire community

Industrial Cooperative Training is a joint effort through students, parents, the school, and industrial merchants offering students definite jobs.

Although the entire community benefits from the program, the students at Sherman High School gain the most. Students not only earn credits toward graduation, and standard wage earnings for working but they are given the opportunity to develop their industrial aptitudes and interests.

Some of the local businesses employing students through the ICT program include; Swartwout Industries, Ultra Carbon, City of Sherman, Twin City Lanes, Denison Golf Carts, and Ceres Engine Rebuilders.

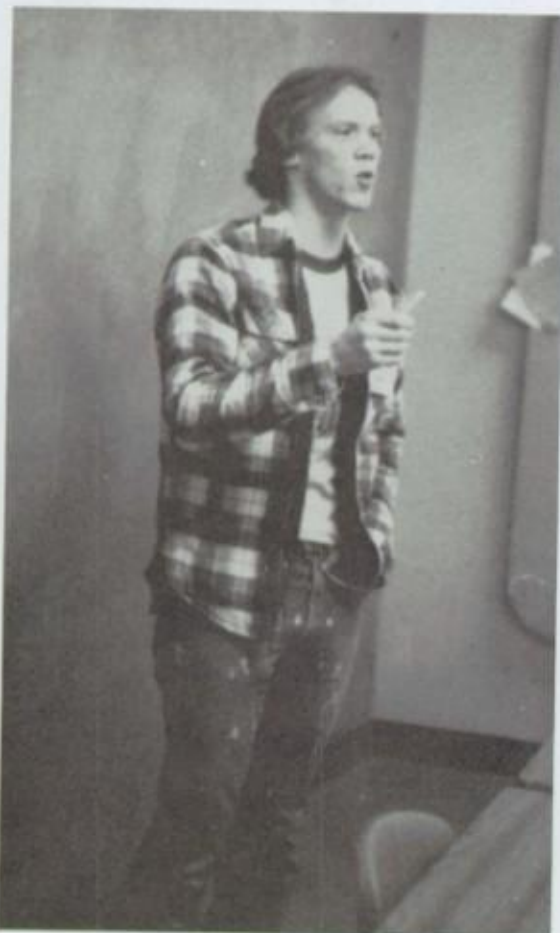

ICT officers were David Lincecum, president; Gary Dunlap, vice president; Chip Kisloski, secretary; Cary Gooch, treasurer; Dennis Robards, reporter; Mike Patterson, parliamentarian; and Ronnie Corbitt, sergeant at arms. Mr. Mark Stubber was sponsor.

OEA attends East Texas, San Antonio contests

Office Education Association got their year underway by electing and installing club officers.

Soon afterwards, OEA members sold various items from the Tom Wat kits, enabling them to earn a substantial amount of money which was contributed to the clubs fund.

A four course progressive dinner was a highlight for December. The party was held in the homes of club members, Lorinda Ford, Julia Kever, Angel Inman, and Cynthia Flowers.

Members met regularly for the remainder of the year. They attended an area contest at East Texas State and later, a three day contest at San Antonio.

HOSA sponsors speakers, parties

As in the past, Health Occupations Students of America led an active and exciting year.

To get things going, HOSA students held a "Get Acquainted" party at Pizza Inn for new and old club members.

A Halloween party was held in the home of Denise Turner, club president.

During the winter holidays, HOSA members held their Christmas party at school, enjoying cookies and refreshments.

HOSA members also sponsored many guest speakers from the local area. They spoke on topics such as hearing defects and crime prevention.

HOSA students sponsored a blood pressure check in health classes and later at the Sher-Den Mall. Another project was the "Smoke Out" drive in which HOSA members joined with the student council and encouraged smokers to quit for twenty-four hours.

As a fund raiser, students sold key chains, planners, and medicards. The earnings were placed in the clubs fund and used to cover expenses on trips and contests.

Students also entered a three day Area V contest in Fort Worth.

HOSA officers this year were Denise Turner, president; Rhonda Krauss, vice president; Traci Lyons and Datra Parker, co-secretaries; Angela Johnson, reporter; Tim Lunkley, parliamentarian; Kim Ellis, treasurer; Carolyn Johnson and Stephanie Cookston, co-historians; and Pam Medlin, sentinel. HERO students develop excellent leadership qualities

Home Economics Related Occupations was a club for students enrolled in Occupational Home Economics, a course combining on-the-job-training with in-school instruction.

Development of leadership qualities and school, home, and community involvement were two of the purposes of the club.

Three projects sponsored by HERO members were a Halloween party at the Grayson County Society for Crippled Children, providing Thanksgiving dinner for a needy family, and tray favors for a rest home at Christmas.

Students were also involved in a very successful fund raising project to pay expenses of delegates to the Area Leadership Conference in Fort Worth and State FHA/HERO meeting in Dallas. A banquet honoring employers was held in April.

HERO officers for 1982-83 were Jason Perkins, president; Kelly Vaughn, first up; Dana Beard, second up; Lee Craddock, third up; Mike Kottwitz, fourth up; Linda Stein, fifth up; Kim Brewer, secretary and treasurer; Frances Owens, historian and parliamentarian; and Vanessa Ervin, sergeant-at-arms. Deca I students gain early retail experience

Experiencing the outside world while they are still on the inside is putting DECA I members ahead of other students. Members of Distributive Education Clubs of America are employed in various retail jobs in the community before they graduate.

Throughout the year DECA met at Grandy's before school, and Mazzio's at night. For their fund raising activities students cleaned up the stadium after the home games. Members also helped with a Christmas party held at the Crippled Children's Center. To close the year members planned an employer-employee party.

During the spring season, DECA I students attended the DECA competitive events. General merchandising, food merchandising, apparel, accessories, finance and credit were events entered in the contest. Members also attended the State DECA Career Development Conference in Houston.

Club projects head Deca II activity list

Distributive Education Clubs of America is a club which promotes learning the responsibilities of working in the world of business.

DECA II students opened their year by electing and installing officers for the new school year.

As a required class project, students displayed their creativity by making an interesting window display in the DE showcase.

Another club project included sponsoring Free Enterprise Day in which business owners spoke on various areas of the business world.

DECA II students sold customized Bearcats as a club fund raiser. The profits were later used to help pay expenses at the Employer-Employee Banquet which was held in the spring.

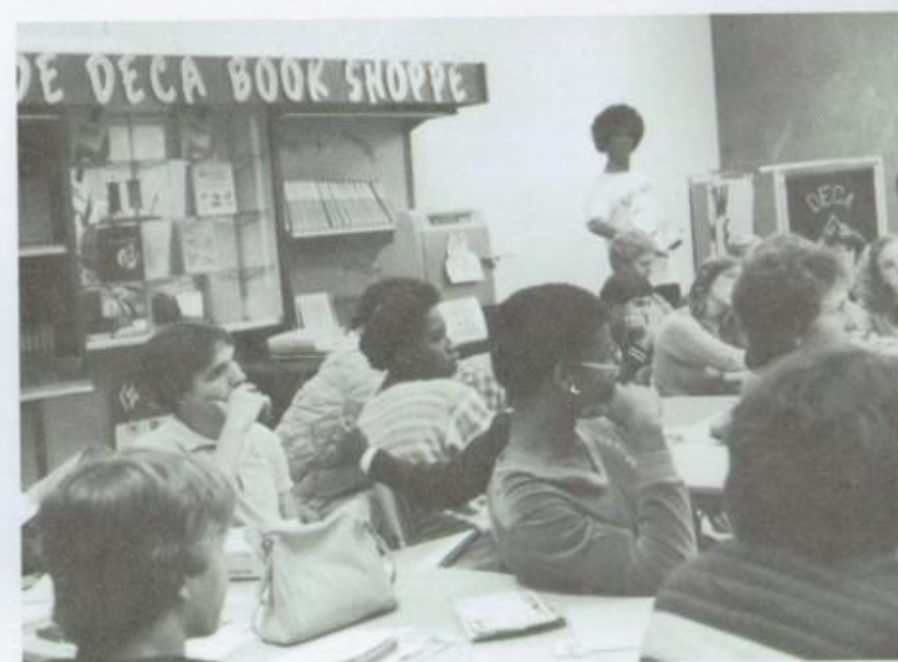

Area Contest for DECA II students was held at Denton High School in Denton and state contest was held at the Astrodome in Houston.

National contest was later held in New Orleans.

Officers for DECA II were: Chris Snodgrass, president; Marie Bird, vice president; Stacy Glidwell, secretary; and Jerry Fontaine, treasurer. Ms. Ronnett Powell was sponsor.

Stylist provided immediate careers

After 1500 hours, the amount of time it takes to become a full fledge cosmetologist, students can enter the world of beauty fully licensed and ready to work.

Snip after snip, curl after curl, they developed precise styling techniques. Students also exercised their talent by opening up their services to the public.

During the winter season Cosmetology sold candy to help sponsor their trip to VICA Contest, and to help VICA club projects.

Diane Lichnovsky, junior commented, "I took the course because it was a good opportunity to learn other things, and because it could be a good career."

Cosmetology officers were: Debbie Boone, president; Cathy Company, vice president; Diane Lichovsky, secretary; Sheila Bills, treasurer; Christy Bunch, reporter; Donna Douglas, sergeant-at-arms; and Tammy Arnold, parliamentarian. Mrs. Shirley Baldwin served as sponsor.

Candy sales benefit drafting club funds

Drafting students began the school year by electing and installing new officers during a breakfast meeting at Grandy's.

Members met regularly throughout the year and worked diligently on their plans for contest.

District contest was held in February at Kilgore and state contest was held in April at Fort Worth.

Vica Drafting officers were Debbie Lichnovsky, president; William Bowers, vice president; Laura Aslakson, secretary; Pat Booker, treasurer; Kirby Powell, parliamentarian; Steve Parrish, sergeant-at-arms; and Brett Walser, reporter. Mr. Dorvin Johnson was sponsor.

Machinist, welder gain industry skills

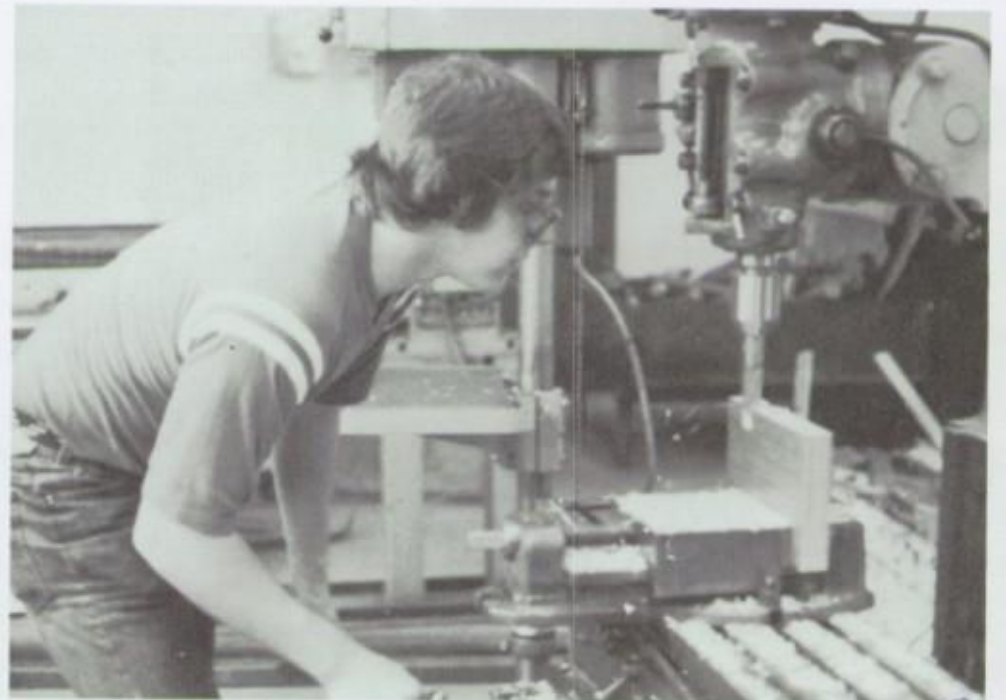

"Metal Trades was a club designated to prepare students to enter the world of industry with a gained skill," stated club sponsor Mr. Walter White.

Students worked hard acquiring the knowledge and skill it takes to become a good machinist or welder.

However, practicing the art of operating machines and welding did not stop metal trades officers from meeting regularly.

Members raised money by making thirty-two wood racks for Park Place II Apartments. The money was contributed to the clubs fund to help pay for additional expenses when members attended their district and state competitions.

Officers for Metal Trades were: Wes Sloane, president; John Dodson, vice president; Scott Richardson, secretary; Don Colclasure, treasurer; Bruce Sanders, reporter; Darril Sloane, parliamentarian; and Casey Logston, sergeant-at-arms.

Electronics emphasize vocational background

The TV Electronics class was a three hour class which introduced students to basic electronics. Students studied transistors, diodes, integrated circuits, and logic circuits.

Much emphasis was placed on students learning how to read meters and wiring diagrams. The basic study of TV and stereo and microprocessors was covered by sponsor Mr. Charles Kennedy.

Senior Paul Reber commented, "I am planning to become an electronics engineer and a vocational background will help when I enroll in a Technical College."

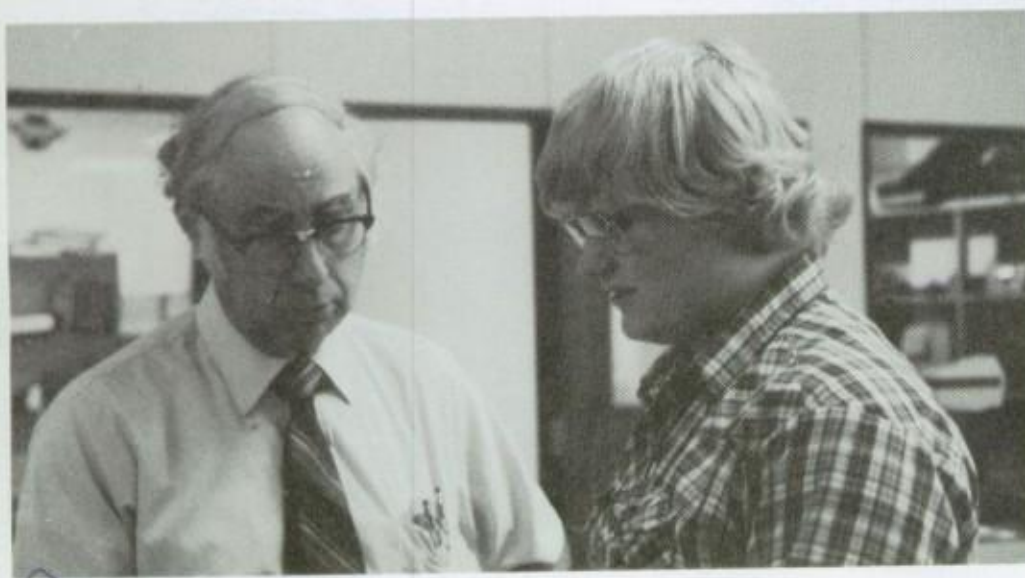

TV Electronic officers were: Paul Reber, president; Mike Hunter, vice president; David Wolfe, secretary; Clint Putman, reporter; George Copland, treasurer; and Terry Simpson, parliamentarian.

Building trades promotes leadership, construction skills

Leadership training and career skills were highly promoted in Building Trades.

Hammers, nails, saws, and 2x4's were materials that could be found at 3210 Richelieu, the site where building trades students worked on completion of an estimated $70,000 home.

The house consisted of 1,650 feet, 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, formal dining room, den, fireplace, and a covered patio. Students completed a majority of all carpentry work, electrical wiring, and finishing touches.

Clubs Share Common Bond

Throughout the school year, a major part of being involved in campus life was by participating in a club.

These clubs gave students a chance to band together and share their common interests.

A variety of clubs ranging from special interests and honorary clubs to scholastic ability and community service were offered SHS students.

Each hosted many diverse activities, however, all clubs shared the need for money. Hardly any clubs went without sponsoring some kind of fund raising activity.

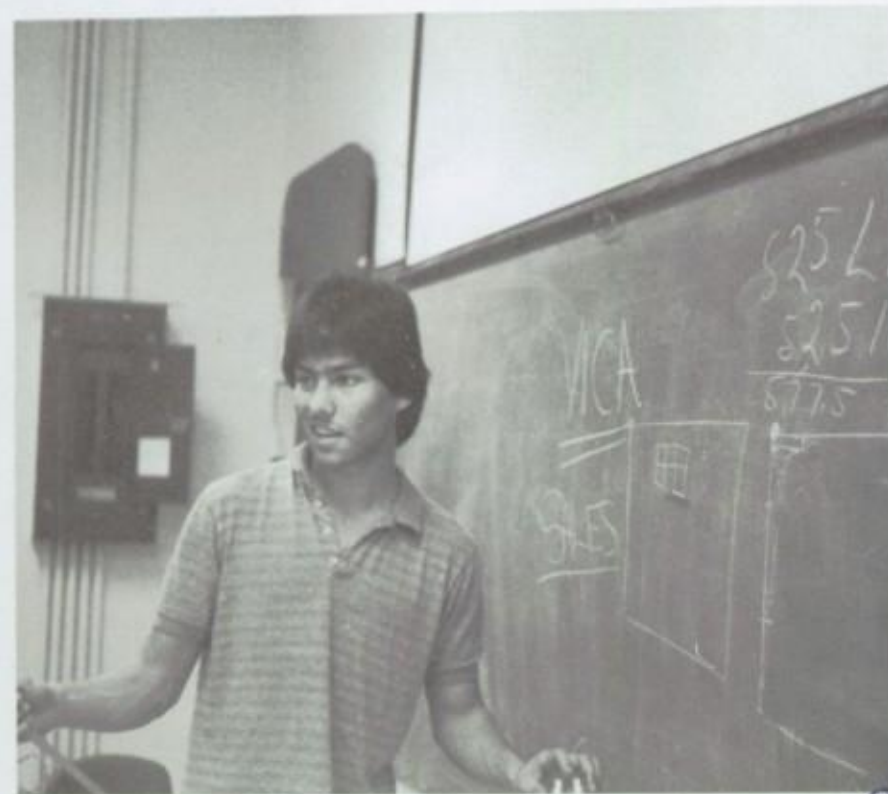

Clubs were a good way to become active in a school. They gave students a chance to get together with their friends and they helped to make school more bearable.

HONORS

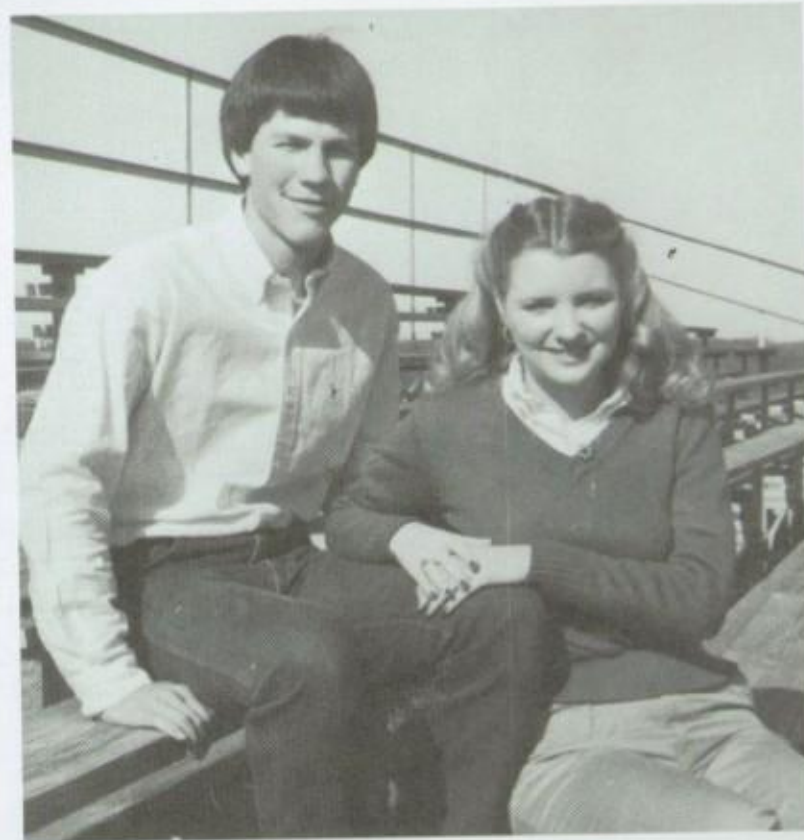

Most Unpredictable — It was an impossible task to determine what Marshall Minshew and Shelly Sewell would do next. Their adventurous spirit made the long days seem more hopeful.

Most Intriguing — Sheila Rowen and Marv Sprouse definitely aroused the curiosity and fascination of their friends. It was a struggle just trying to figure out what was going on inside their heads.

Most Likely to Succeed — Perhaps the hardest title to award is this one. Steve Avard and Sally Nicholson have followed a road of success throughout their life. It will be interesting to look back in 1993 and see if the prophecy has been fulfilled.

Friendliest — Cindy Blanton and Andy Olmstead made everyone on campus feel welcome with their outgoing personality and understanding smile. They seemed to be able to provide conversation even on the worst days.

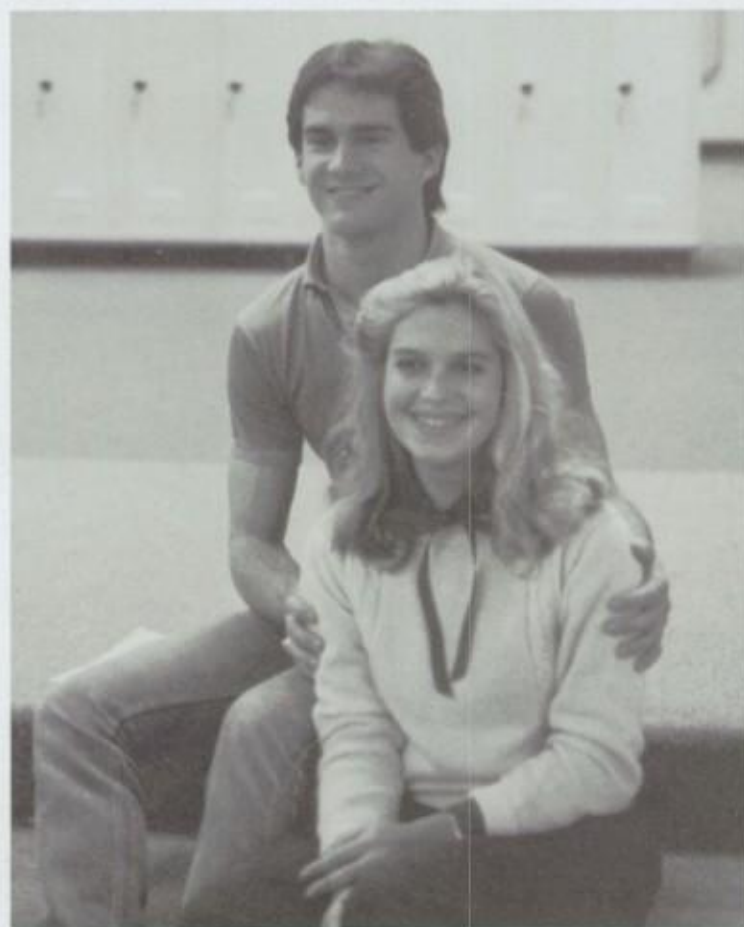

Most Spirited — The two seniors always yelling the loudest at athletic events and rallies were Laura Anderson and Ted Payne. They not only got the crowd "hyped" up, but also fired up the team with their great enthusiasm.

Best Actor and Actress — Performing in various roles and plays, Michelle Fincher and Rex Grigg used their numerous talents to entertain the student body and support the Drama department.

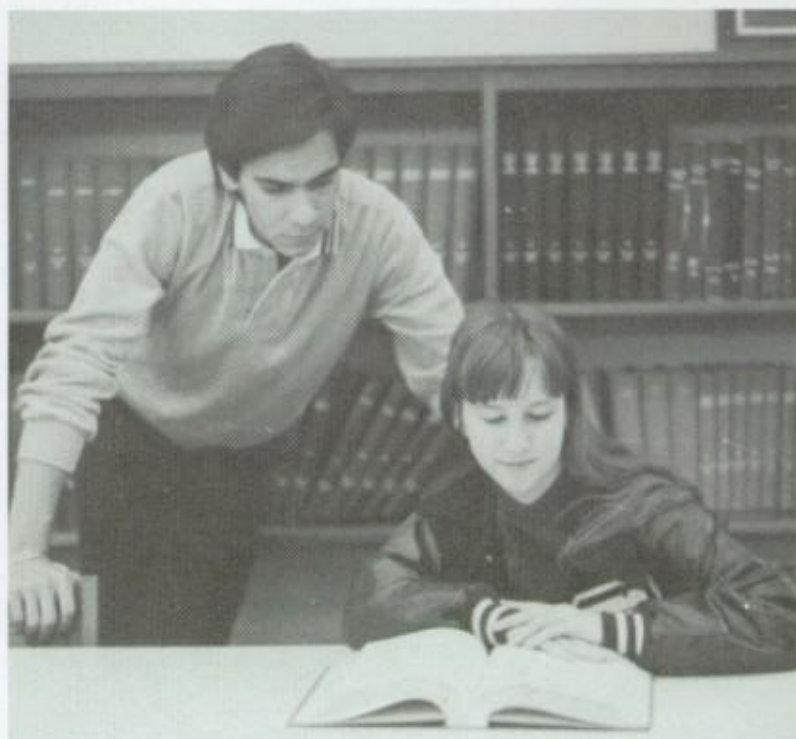

Best All-Round — The students chosen for this title, Chris Daniels and Marsha Krajewski, displayed the highest quality of excellence during their four years at SHS. Their attitudes truly exemplify the capability to achieve in all areas.

Most Conscientious — Andrew Lucchesi and Mariana Desaloms guided themselves with much thought and care. They had strict regard to right and wrong and were scrupulous in their decisions.

Best Dressed — Ray and Kay Russell kept the student body in style by constantly appearing in chic and fashionable clothes.

Most Intelligent — Roberto Olivares and Stephanie Smith showed ability to learn quickly in any subject area and had the mental capacity to excel.

Most Artistic — Showing quality and excellence, Jana Alls and Phillip Merrit prepared artwork to please the student body. Originality and creativity was displayed in their work.

Beauty and Brawn — Scott Conrad showed muscular strength and attractive features while Susan Sparazynski displayed grace, delicacy, charm and overall beauty.

Most Dependable — Classmates knew they could place their trust and confidence in Thad Kelley and Kerri Taylor. These two students were known for reliability.

Most Athletic — The two most athletic students at SHS were Valerie Campbell and Brian Wright. Brian won his fame on the Basketball court, and Valerie "showed her stuff" in the field of Track, Volleyball, and Basketball.

Most Musical — Cindy Davidson and David Layman were voted the two most musical students on campus. Both contributed their talents in the field of music, both singing and playing instruments.

Wittiest — Cooper McElhannon and Mary Wiley could always be seen clowning around anywhere on campus. They were a couple of "cards," making school more enjoyable for students and teachers alike.

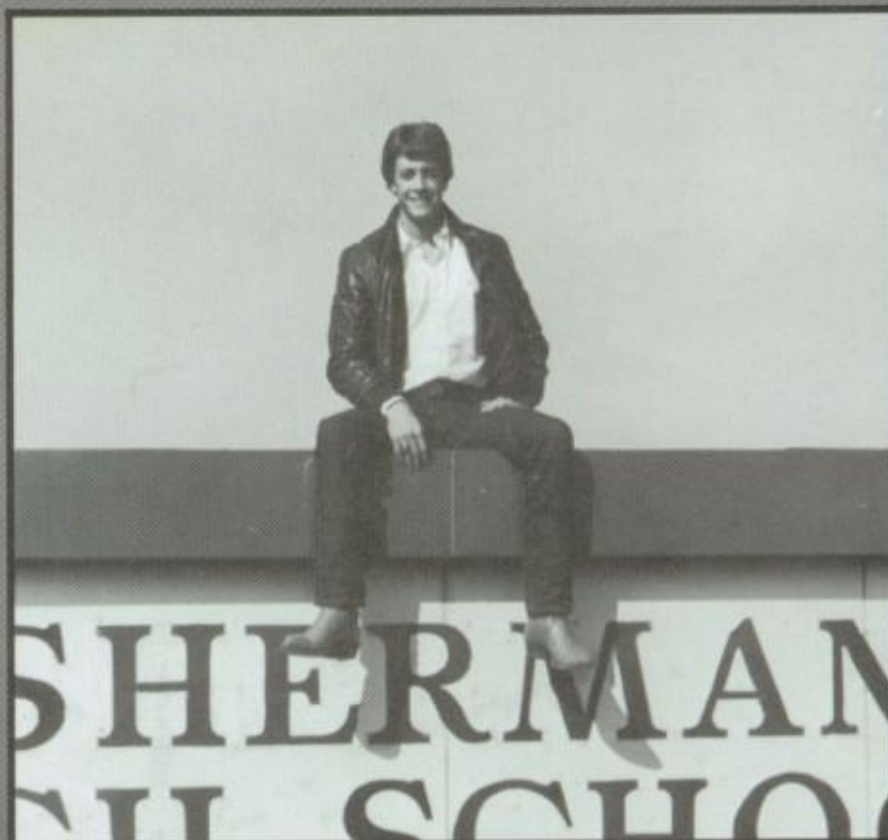

Active students bestow honor

Bestowed upon 36 very exceptional students was the honor of being selected Who's Who. The quality of the individual is reflected through the criteria on which the position is based. Leadership, honesty, citizenship, friendliness, scholarship, dependability, and extra-curricular activity involvement are the essential character builders on which nominations are made by peers.

SUSAN SPARAZYNSKI

All-American Drill Team member, Susan Sparazynski, paced her high school years with numerous activities. She served as a Freshman Cheerleader, Drill Team Jr. Lt., and Co-Captain and was a finalist in the Homecoming Court. Susan was also elected Most Beautiful by the senior class and actively participated in Student Council, Pan American Student Forum, Future Teachers of America Historian, National Honor Society, Future Homemakers of America, Mu Alpha Theta, and NIKE.

Challenges met in foreign country

Would you leave home just to go to school in another country? This year Alejandra Escalante, Roxana Ramos, Aida Irma Cuevas, Sergio Perez, Carlos Esposito, Alvaro Arceo, from Campeche, Mexico, Luis Garcia, from Brazil, and Barbara Stallman of Bochum, Germany, found the opportunity appealing.

Eight foreign students agreed to come to school at Sherman High with the knowledge that no credit would be received for their courses. The class work doesn't seem to be the primary objective, "I enjoy meeting a lot of different people and comparing the lifestyle differences between Germany and the United States," said Barbara.

They all seem to enjoy experiencing our way of life here. Aida said, "I like the language and the people and would like to come back." Despite the slight language barrier, all of the exchange students have adjusted very well. Sergio said, "Texas is a beautiful state, and the people are all so nice."

Since they were here for the entire school year, they had a chance to live with different families from within the community and view American lifestyle. Alvaro resided with the Max Cogswells, Aida with the Don Martins, Alejandra with the Randy Hudgins, Carlos with the Larry Blacks, Sergio with the Jimmie Harrells, Roxanna with the Lyle Froeses, and Luis Garcia with the Jeff Grynwalds.

Special Honors

Susan Sparazynski

After a week of observing girls from all over the state, Mrs. Joyce Pennington, executive vice president of the All American Drill Team School, nominated Senior, Susan Sparazynski to the All American Drill Team.

Susan was selected after participating in the drill team competition this summer achieving excellence in pom-pom, marching and dancing drills.

Susan and the All Americans performed at the Hyatt Regency, half time of the Dallas Mavericks-San Antonio Spurs basketball game and the closing ceremonies of Six Flags Over Texas.

Susan, co-captain of the SHS drill team, was active in PASF, NHS, Mu Alpha Theta, NIKE, FTA, and FHA.

Senior Kerri Taylor was selected to attend this year's American Legion Auxillary Leadership Workshop in Seguin, Texas.

Nominated by SHS faculty recommendations and interviews with local auxillary; Kerri was the only girl from Sherman chosen to attend Girls' State, an organization of 560 girls that set up and run a mock government. While at Girls' State Kerri was elected National Chairperson and selected as an alternate to Girls' Nation, an honor only four girls receive.

Kerri will be the only SHS student to attend Girls' State twice, returning as a staff member this summer.

Participating actively in school activities Kerri was involved in PASF, NHS, Mu Alpha Theta, FTA, and Student Council.

Seniors Andrew Lucchesi and Stephanie Smith received commendations as members of this year's National Merit Scholarship program. They placed in the top five percent of the participants in the twenty-eighth nationwide competition.

Andrew was active in Student Council, French Club, Mu Alpha Theta, and NHS.

Stephanie participated in PASF, NHS, and Mu Alpha Theta.

SPORTS

Blanton receives homecoming crown

Each year the students of Sherman High School choose one very exceptional and special girl to represent them as their Homecoming Queen. This year the honor was bestowed upon Cindy Blanton, representing the French Club.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Blanton, Cindy helped boost spirit in school activities during her four years as a Cheerleader. Also excelling in other organizations, she served as French Club President and Secretary. She actively participated in National Honor Society, Pan American Student Forum, NIKE, Future Teachers of America, Mu Alpha Theta, and served as a four year Student Council member. Cindy was also selected Who's Who four consecutive years.

"When I was chosen as a finalist, I was really excited and nervous. Being selected as Queen, I was really happy that things turned out the way they did, but relieved that it was all over," commented Cindy.

Crowned by 1981 Homecoming Queen, Leda Carpenter during the halftime of the Sherman-Wichita Falls High game, Cindy was presented the traditional red roses.

Other finalists included Marsha Krajewski, representing Choir; Lady-in-Waiting, Laura Anderson, Auto Mechanics; Jenny Byler, NIKE; and Susan Sparazynski, Debate.

This event was truly one of the most anticipated moments of the entire year.

Homecoming activities fill exciting week

October 29, Homecoming 1982 — For the freshman, it was a time of adventure, excitement, the first high school dance, and for many the first date. For sophomores, it meant contentment, thinking about driving, getting use to the routine, and giving the Frosh the business. Juniors anticipated their senior year, felt a sense of pride at becoming upperclassman, faced new challenges, and developed high hopes. Seniors partied, reflected on years gone by and worried about college, with anticipated nervousness.

For everyone it meant fun. During the week there was Warm-Up Day, Hat Day, Western Day, and Color Day. Extracurricular activities ran rampant as Homecoming nominees and participants in the parade and Variety Show prepared for the big game.

The enthusiasm continued right up to the time for the crowning, as Cindy Blanton was selected Queen. Students finished off the evening with flair, attending the Homecoming Dance. The theme was UP WHERE WE BELONG. Music was provided by Cartridge Corner of Commerce.

Drill Team

The Drill Team opened its 1982-83 year with 55 eager and dedicated ladies who gave their all for a performance.

The girls, sponsored by Mrs. Karla Skipworth, decorated the fields with high kicks, hand routines, fan kicks, and prop routines, making this one of their most successful and rewarding years.

Their captains and lieutenants contributed creativity and kept the squad uniform in their routines. Hours of practice were put into each performance, a major factor enabling them to acquire high ranking awards. Their excellence added pageantry to the overall appeal of SHS.

The girls performed at every football game during the season. They also participated in spirit raising during the year, using many of the routines they learned at camp. Even basketball season didn't escape without a performance from the Drill Team.

The senior officers, Captain, Kim McClure; Co-Captains Susan Sparazynski and Marsha Krajewski; and Sr. Lts. Jana Alls and Suzanne Bednarz, along with Jr. Lts. Paige Francisco, Melissa Davis, and Sharon Allison, traveled to Southern Methodist University to learn new routines to teach other Drill Team members. While there, Co-Captain Susan Sparazynski took her place in the All-American Drill Team after receiving ribbons in marching, dancing and pom-pom.

All girls were required to attend the Drill Team's summer camp held at SHS.

Billy Bob Boys

Spirit, always a tradition at Sherman High School, cannot be better expressed than by the Billy Bob Boys. Andrew Lucchesi commented, "The time I invested was well worth it. It was an enlightening experience in my senior year."

The main duties of the Billy Bob Boys included the care and maintenance of Billy Bob Bearcat, the school mascot, assisting the Varsity cheerleaders in skits and stunts, and raising spirit at pep rallies and games.

With a proud heritage and a promising future, the Billy Bob Boys are some of the best students in their class. Ray Bell stated, "I enjoyed showing spirit, and the activities with the cheerleaders."

Senior Dan Young said, "I really enjoyed being a Billy Bob Boy, especially in the last game." This year's Billy Bob Boys were Ray Bell, Andrew Lucchesi, Marshall Minshew, Lane Northcut, Jason Perkins, and Dan Young.

Varsity Cheerleaders

Status is a word that usually follows cheerleading. Every year a number of hopeful candidates try out for the coveted 8 positions of the Varsity squad. But the so-called glamour and popularity associated with the sport often overshadowed the true meaning of cheerleading. Filling one of the most demanding jobs on campus, the cheerleaders held a position of leadership. Although the year was filled with hard work, activity, and effort, the girls never seemed to mind the extra responsibility.

Out of 140 squads attending the National Cheerleading Association camp at Southern Methodist University, the cheerleaders were one of the 25 receiving the spirit stick twice. They also learned and developed new cheerleading techniques.

From football to soccer season, the pepsters plotted and planned events in order to raise the Bearcat spirit level. Each girl did her best in the position in which she was elected, realizing that being a leader meant always staying a cut above the rest.

Varsity cheerleaders for the 1982-83 year were Laura Anderson, Cindy Blanton, Jenny Byler, Amy Greiner, Susan Hase, Karen Mygrant, Kim Smith, and Stephanie Schweizer.

Season long for determined cats

Although the Cats were seldom victorious, their 1-8-1 seasonal record did not adequately reflect the efforts put forth by the 41 players. The team played with determination and stamina in every contest, but they lacked experience and skill needed for the intense competition.

The Cats played Irving, Highland Park, Plano, Kimball, South Oak Cliff, Denton, Wichita Falls Rider, Wichita Falls High, Weatherford, and Denison. They faced 6 UIL play-off teams and had the toughest 5-A schedule in the state.

The greatest moments for the Cats were the final seconds of the Sherman vs. Irving game. The Cats won that game 35 to 27 because they were in better shape than Irving. The rest of the season went down hill for the young Cats. Injuries and lack of experience plagued the Cats.

The worst moments for the Cats came in the final seconds of the Sherman vs. Denison game. The Cats lost to the Yellowjackets 28 to 10, forfeiting the Axe to Denison for the first time in 13 years. "It was a year of missed inches," said Coach John Pearce.

The No. 13 will never be forgotten.

Ironically, 1982 was Coach Pearce's 13th year in coaching. There were other 13's in 1982: Thirteen seniors finished out their high school football careers, 13 touchdown passes were thrown against the Bearcats' secondary, Denison erased the memory of 13 contests without a win against the Bearcats.

Enthusiasm! Who are the most enthusiastic members of the student body? The cheerleaders, of course, and more accurately, the 1982-83 Junior Varsity Cheerleaders. "Enthusiasm is contagious and this is one of the most enthusiastic groups I've ever encountered," commented Mrs. Dana Williams, sponsor. "These girls are born leaders."

You can see not one, but all of them trying to generate school spirit through their non-stop action at the games, designing breakthroughs for the football players, and making locker decorations. According to Mrs. Williams, all of this was done with little or no prodding from her. She went on to say, "When I tell them something needs to be done, the usual response is, 'We've already done it.'"

"The girls of this squad who wish to succeed in being a part of next year's Varsity squad will help produce one of the best groups ever," added their sponsor. The maturity and raw talent illustrated by these six young ladies is rare in a squad, and much appreciated.

Mistakes hamper JV

The Sherman Bearcats JV football team did not have one of its better seasons posting a 2-6 record.

With enough talent to compete for the district championship, the Cats were continually hampered by mistakes which usually came at a very crucial time.

"We had a lot of untimely mistakes, some that seem to have no answer," stated Bearcat Darron Holland. "We worked out with the Varsity every-day and that made us a lot better. A lot of the Sophomores that would have been on JV were on Varsity, and this alone makes up for the lack of success" stated Holland.

"Not being familiar with the new system, and coaches made this year more of an adjustment," commented Larry Leeder.

The Cats looked forward to a winning season after a convincing 32-8 trouncing over Irving. The Cats then went on to suffer six straight losses before defeating arch rival Denison 26-13.

"No matter what kind of season we have, we all know that we always beat Denison," replied Alvin Jones.

"The team worked hard all year. The adjustment, discipline, and better knowledge of the game was great," commented Coach David Hughes. JV football is the third step in preparing an athlete for varsity football and for this year's JV team the idea of becoming a Super Sherman Bearcat was worth the heartaches suffered in their dissappointing 2-6 record.

"JV was fun plus it was a lot of hard work, but the idea of becoming a Bearcat someday is the driving force which keeps us all going, and striving for more," added Brian Reed. When asked if this year's JV was ready for Varsity football Coach Steve Southerland stated, "These guys are tough battlers and they never quit. That's the best varsity material anyone could ask for."

Outstanding players for this year's JV were: Alvin Jones, Britt Jones, Drew Heil, Sean Alpaugh, Ray Campbell, Mike Pleasant, Darron Holland, Brian Reed, and Ernest Porter.

'Freshman Cheerleaders'

While most freshmen were enjoying summer vacation, the freshman cheerleaders were learning new cheers and routines. Attending all freshman football and basketball games, they promoted ninth grade spirit. Unlike most sports organizations, the freshman cheerleaders' season lasted all year long.

The freshman cheerleaders found it would take much hard work and dedication to produce a good year. Michelle Turner stated, "It's hard work but you get a lot out of it." Elizabeth Buchanon said, "It was a good experience, I enjoyed it."

The freshman white cheerleaders were Heather Beaucomp, Amy Brown, Libby Dill, Janet Richmond, Susan Roberts, and Jennifer Watson. The maroon cheerleaders consisted of Elizabeth Buchanon, Kim Everett, Beth Harrell, Jennifer Kinder, Yvonne McKee, and Michelle Turner.

Frosh strive for excellence

The Freshman team gained valuable experience in a new learning process throughout the season. The Cats took a very important step under new head coach, Eddie Brister, by learning new techniques and formations. Bright spots for the freshman Cats, were Walter Casey, Michael Shannon, Quinton Boyd, Sammy Bryant and Chad Rollins. Leading the offense was Larry Wilson and leading the defense, Dale Rogers.

Injuries were one of the reasons the young Cats were not successful, but, after overcoming many obstacles and adjustments, the Cats' confidence progressed. "This team will become one of Sherman's winning traditions of the Eighties. This team has lots of dedication and desire," said Eddie Brister. This definitely should produce a very good team in the future.

Varsity captures district third

This year's boys' Varsity Basketball team finished an impressive season with a 16-11 record.

The 'Cats took a third place (6-4) standing in a district race in which they left little difference between themselves and the first two teams, Denton and Weatherford. "We had the satisfaction of defeating the district champs," said Coach Bill Estes.

All five starters, seniors, Brian Wright, Steve Avard, and Andy Olmstead; junior Vaughn Gentry, and sophomore James Thomas, were outstanding players. They each averaged in double figures in both the regular season and district play. As a team characteristic, Coach Estes added, "They played well together."

Cats model consistency

Sherman High's JV boys' basketball team ended the year with a 18-6 record.

The cats which were led by their 46 percent field goal shooting used a balanced attack to coast to a 8-2 district record. Their only setback came to Denton.

"This year's team was self-disciplined and worked very hard to attain their goal of becoming district champs," commented coach Al Hambrick.

"Team unity was great," said Hambrick. "We had many strengths, but our bench was outstanding, led by David Matthews, Tripp Harris, and Rodney Eleby.

Outstanding players were Ike Johnson, Tony Carter, Darren Kaats, Brad Fincher, and Colin Strong.

Entering the season with few experienced players the boys' freshman basketball team faced an uphill struggle during the entire season.

Many hours of devotion were put into skills, building up their mental attitude and working together as a team.

Spiker's take district second

Wham! Biff! Smack!

These were a few sounds one might have heard while watching the volleyball team setting, bumping and spiking on to victory.

The varsity Lady Bearcat team consisted of two seniors, five juniors, and one sophomore.

Ending the season with a 8-11 record, the team finished second in District and went on to Bi-district, but was defeated by Arlington Heights in 3 games.

Top server was Hope Sims, top setter, Sharon Craddock, and top spiker, Janice Chappell.

"This is one of the best disciplined and well oriented teams that I have ever coached," stated Don Longo.

Spikers gain recognition

This year the JV Volleyball team ended up with high hopes for the future. After overcoming adjustment problems, the Cats became a well oriented group. This team gained recognition and grew very strong as the season continued.

Consistent serving and quickness was provided by Starla Smith and Patrice Bevels, while Lequita Gathron was the Cats' top hitter. Janice Shultz and Ramona Chappell led the Cats in setting. Defense was carried out by Jessica Hudson and Tricia Cooksey. Detra Dunlap and Janice Shultz were the leading blockers, while Charlotte Blanton led in serving.

"This team was very well disciplined and worked consistently through the year," commented Carrie Barron, coach. "Their court experience will go a long way in their being a strong team in 1983."

Frosh continue building experience, confidence

After overcoming adjustment problems the freshman girls volleyball team confidence seemed to progress.

"This year's team was very young and inexperienced and despite their lack of talent the team continued to progress," stated coach Terri Landes.

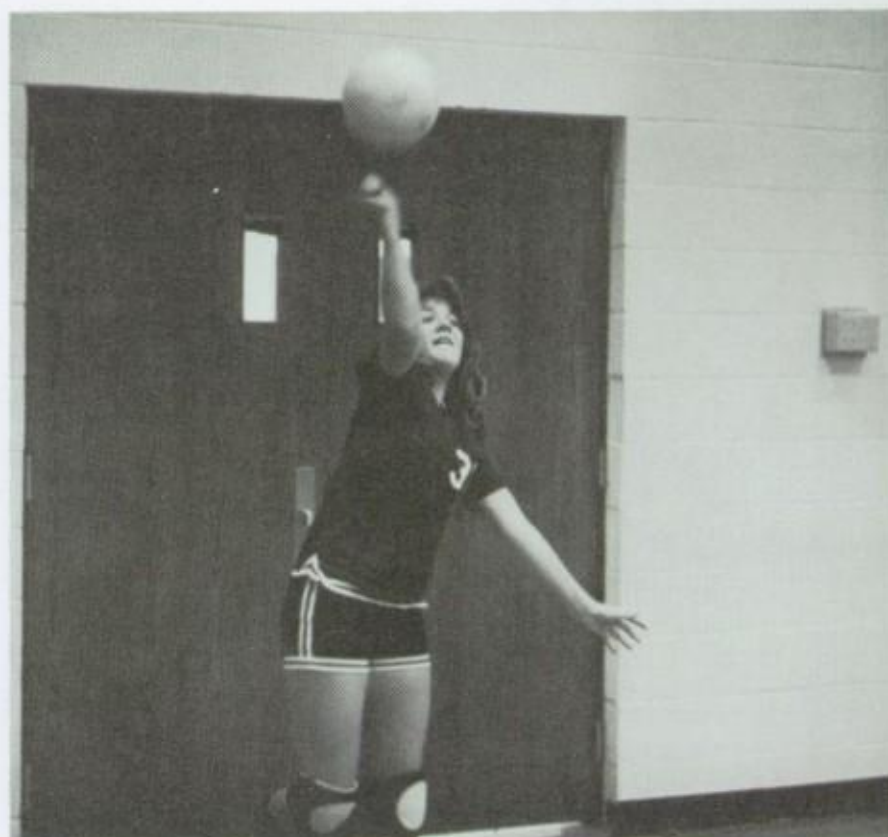

The Cats competed in the Plano and Denton tournaments, but were eliminated early. They ended the year with a disappointing 2-8 record.

Standouts were Tammy Wren, Dusty McGraw, Dawn Watkins, Angie Compton, Kim Knowles, and Twyla McKenzie.

Varsity shows improvement

This year's Varsity Girls' Basketball Team, consisting of 10 players, worked hard on defensive skills and offensive alignments in preparation for two annual tip offs.

With encouragement from Coach Jimmie Phillips the young varsity team demonstrated hard work and a host of aggressiveness. Leading the Bearkettes were Seniors Shavon Baldwin, Valerie Campbell, and Vickie Bootman; Juniors, Jonna Blair, Susan Totten and Patricia Isabell Sophomores Greta Scruggs and Shennell Cox. "Teamwork was the main objective for the Bearkettes," stated Shavon Baldwin, Practicing every day with fundamental drills and basic plans proved worthwhile for the team. This year's Varsity record was 13-14 and 2-8 in district. Four seniors finished up their high school careers while seven underclassmen establish valuable experience.

J.V. take district co-championship

The Sherman Bearkett's JV basketball team ended the year with an impressive 9-1 record.

The lady Cats used good team spirit, leadership, and athletic ability to coast to a 16-8 season record. The Cats also tied for the district championship. "This season was great," commented coach Mike Reece. "Anytime you finish even or above you have got to consider the season a success," added Reece. This year's team success was due to Lori Scott's leadership, the rebounding of Tammy Cooksey, and the consistency of Carla Hudson. Young team proves to be bold and aggressive

If you thought this year's girls' Freshman Basketball team was good, wait until next year. Using a controlled offense and tough defense, the team continually ran up the score against good matched opponents. "We were able to work well as a team," stated Monique Green. "We were really great. We played good as a team with the help of our coach Terri Landes," commented Kelley Foster.

The team was led by Monique Greene, Vanessa Manuel, Melissa Zivec, Amber Sprouse, Leah Rice, Lori Marshall, Karen Thompson, Cynthia Brooks, Marla Dupree, Amy West, Julie Arnold, and Gretchen Shaw.

The Cats finished with a 14-2 season record and a 7-1 record in district.

Soccer shows vast improvement

Think of a sport which requires coordination, speed, and endurance. It's a world wide sport which costs little to participate in and comes complete with international heroes. You guessed it SOCCER!

This year's Varsity Soccer Team was led by captains Eric Reutelhuber, David Turner, and Scott Blanton. The Cats achieved many personal and team goals on the field and experienced much success in competing with the more knowledgeable and experienced players from the Dallas-Fort Worth area. All in all it was a very successful season.

JV achieved goals

This year JV was led by Captains Randy Roe and Calvin Smith. The young men stayed on the field with older junior varsity squads and held their opponents closely throughout their matches.

All of the JV players worked long and hard to improve themselves before every game during the season. This is often exhausting and sometimes fun. Training proved to bring out new and important talents and skills in each individual on the team.

This year's JV team should be well prepared for their preparation for varsity.

Tracksters run for successful season

The SHS tracksters once again were at the top of their class in track and field.

With only five seniors the burden was put upon the underclassmen.

"We had lots of good sophomores and juniors, and they did a good job," commented coach Bill O'Brien. "The leadership and dedication of these guys were great, and I think this was the determining factor in our success," replied O'Brien.

Senior runners were: Ray Russell, Nat Southern, Johnny Turner, Brian Wright, and Stan Odam.

Desire pushes Cats

The SHS girls track team had to depend on maturity and leadership this season.

Returning only one senior, the Cat tracksters knew they had their backs up against the wall.

"Strong competition, and desire were the differences this year," commented coach Mike Reece.

Returning standouts for the girls' team were: Dorothy Chaffin, Patricia Isabell, Greta Scruggs, and Karen Craddock.

Season's record shows determination, skill

COUNTRY

Cross Country was one of the least recognized sports on campus; however, many students realized the charisma and skill involved in distance running.

The team's record showed the real effort which was put forth by the runners. The cats finished second in district, sending 10 people to regionals in Lubbock. Both the boys' and girls' teams endured the grueling fatigue of distance running. "Our team was young, but the kids showed a lot of interest and willingness to work," commented Coach Gary Benton. "They really had a desire to excel."

The year was filled with ups and downs for the boys and girls. Their efforts did not go unnoticed by the coach and the runners themselves, and though the material rewards were small, personal achievements and satisfaction were their primary goals.

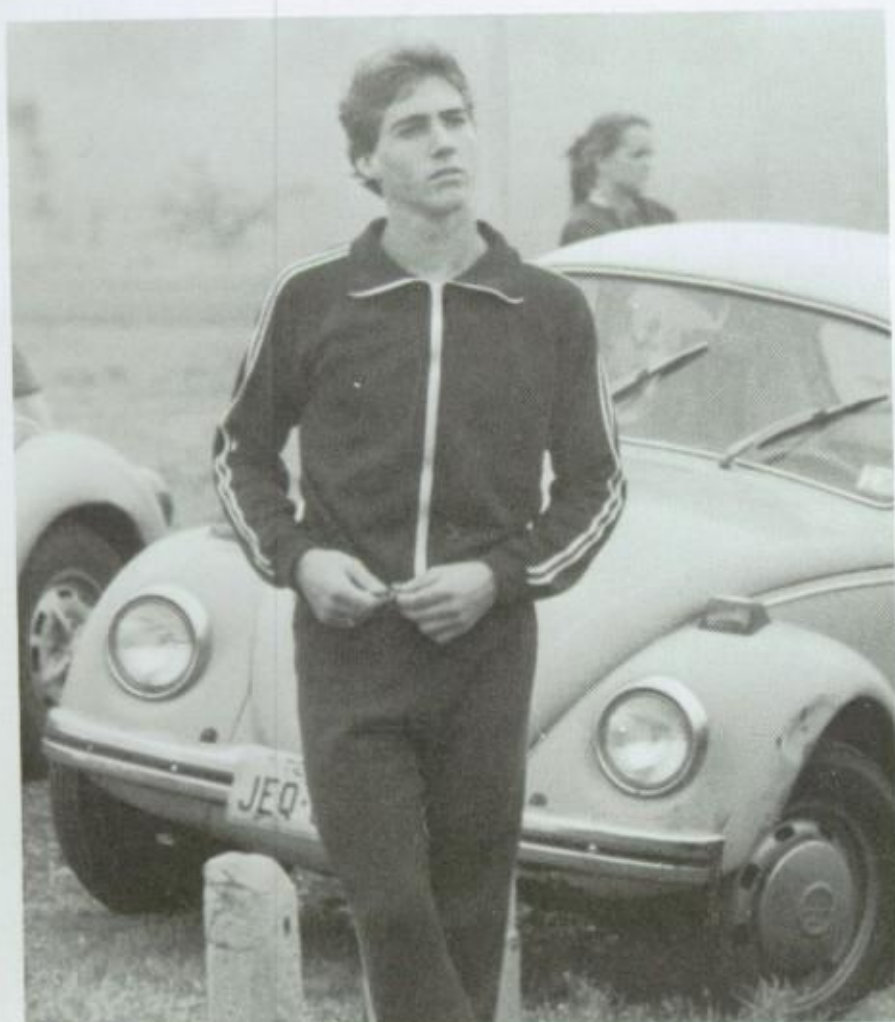

Team members included John Moberly, Stan Odam, Jeff Bodovsky, John Forsythe, Marshall Minshew, Jennifer and Carolyn Buie, Kristine Moberly, Nancy Gallegos, Karen Craddock. JV boys included Todd Stallwood, Allan Younts and Robbie Young.

Golfers continue regional excellence

Golf one of the most suspense filled sports at SHS has three returning lettermen who played on last year's regional team.

Swimmers plunge into growing season

The Swim team has done an excellent job and has put forth a lot of effort in making the season successful. With encouragement from coach Bruce Southerland the team continued to be fired up throughout the season.

Amber Sprouse, Robin Ridgeway, Billy Ludlow, and Mike Gordon were the best of a good freshman class.

Lack of experience boosts winning determination

Baseball with its lack of experienced players had the determination to win, with three lettermen helping to strengthen the areas of speed and pitching.

Helping swing into the season were returning lettermen Ronnie Harrington, Brian McClure, and Izzy Aleman. "We'll be a top contender for district," commented coach Gary Benton. Over all it should be a fairly good season.

Team work promotes winning season

The SHS Tennis team worked hard preparing to face some of the best teams in their district.

Twelve outstanding players, Lane Northcut, Tim Tate, David Rylander, Dan Hanrahan, Brent Berry, Mike Desaloms, Megan Beatty, Whitney Charlton, Kim Abbe, Melinda Mitchell, Claire Tate, and Traci Craig, have made the team undefeated. The teams they faced included L. D. Bell,

Intramurals provide fun and competition

Intramurals was used as a source of relaxation, variety, and excitement for students and teachers. These activities offered a chance for friendly rivalries between the various advisory classes to surface.

For those students not actively involved in any Sherman High athletic programs intramurals was an opportunity to show their hidden talents. For SHS athletes it provided a chance to view their classmates as they were seen in competition.

While intramurals were primarily geared toward the students' enjoyment, many teachers found cheering their team to victory a thrilling experience.

KERRI TAYLOR

After twelve years of struggle
we are finally through.
Now that we made it,
what will we do?
The struggle was started
twelve years ago.
Life was to be new and exciting,
yet how hard we didn't know.
We started with crayons,
gradually progressed to Big Chief
After rest period was over,
we would sigh with relief.
But after fifth grade,
we went to two different schools.
We were given more responsibility
but also more rules.
We wore our green and blue
with immense sense of pride.
We were growing up physically,
but also inside.
Both schools won district
when we were in eighth grade.
Though they were in different sports,
a great impression was made.
We were in a special class,
unique in every way.
We had the courage and enthusiasm
to make it some day.
We arrived at SHS
with many goals to achieve.
We had only four more years
until we could leave.
Our senior year arrived
with excitement and fun.
It represented all things
through the years we had done.
We bought our senior parking stickers,
on our cars they did go.
So if any juniors were in our Parking space,
every senior would know.
Then those poor little juniors,
to their own despair,
would find all of their tires
with very little air.

The Senior Pep Rally arrived.
On October 22 it did lie.
T-Shirts, Pom-Poms, Visors, and Megaphones
were what all the seniors did buy.
A few months later,
we were measured for cap and gown.
We thought we were "badder"
than anyone around.
Announcements came next.
We bought them for family and friends.
We looked at our empty pockets,
wondering if this spending would ever end.
The year went by quickly,
with lots of homework and tests.
We looked forward to college,
so we all tried our very best.
The month of May
to our delight soon came.
We attended senior parties and banquets,
and other activities there's not time to name.
We were given our yearbooks,
which the Athenian staff sold.
Laughter and tears filled the pages.
Oh, what memories it did hold!
When graduation time came,
we held our heads high.
That simple piece of paper
meant twelve years had gone by.
So I must say to all of you,
since the time is here,
Thank you for being
a part of my senior year.
I will treasure the memories
that all of us shared.
The times that you listened,
like you really did care.
Hats off to the Bearcats,
and the Seniors of '83!
If you reach for the stars,
you will become what you want to be.

SUMMER'S END

Three friends together day
by day,
Sharing thoughts and tears.
Torn apart at summer's end
The bond of years and years.

The understanding glances
Would pass again no more.
The anger, fear and laughter
Would memory put in store

For what is put asunder
The same, will never be.
Two friends together day
by day,
Remembering the three.

INQUISITION OF MYSTERY

I saw a light shining brightly, it glowed radiantly, warmly. It invited me to look within.
I drew nearer to the source of illumination —
not knowing what to expect.
To my distinct pleasure I saw a most beautiful scene, It was a mountainous region, edged in forest pines laced delicately with the first snows of winter.

Suddenly, much to my amazement, I was overcome to see the scene become rocky and sandy. There was a beautiful beach lying in the moon's glow,
the water was dark and calm, while small waves ruffled the tranquility.

Again, the scene magically became another, this time
a small village, with tall trees and big houses.
This magical, mysterious light was suddenly recognizable to me, It represented where I lived,
The United States of America!

Each scene was different and beautifully its own,
yet together they stood out — they made a whole,
Just as We the People of The United States of America do!

This is truly a magnificent place to live!!

FRIENDSHIP

Friendship is loyalty.
 Friendship is honesty.
 If there is a friendship with someone, he will be honest even if the truth hurts.
 Friendship is accepting the person the way he is.
 Friendship is caring enough to give your life for someone.
 Friendship is helping someone in a crisis.
 If a person turns his back when you need help was there ever a friendship?
 Friendship is being willing to sacrifice.
 If a person is loyal, honest and willing to sacrifice,
 is there a friendship?

OUR FUTURE DEPENDS ON US

As time moves steadily onward,
 We realize decisions are near.
 What we will do in the future
 Will be planned in these next few years.

Everyone has a chance
 To be the most he can
 Because we each have a talent
 Given of God to Man.

Nothing is impossible
 If we're persistent through all
 We can't give in to frustration
 Whenever we start to fall

For if we dwell on failure
 Our pain will be prolonged.
 Instead we will use these trials
 To build up and make us strong.

And though we are on the road
 That leads so far away,
 We are constantly molding our futures
 By all that we do today!

NOTHING

Here I am a product of man's non-caring attitude.
 I give man his very existence, and what do
 I get in return?
 Careless Destruction!
 What am I? Just look about you; you see me everywhere
 No clues? See even in your own non-caring attitude you can't see me.
 I am the very polluted ground you walk on; I am the polluted lakes and rivers, dwindling, burned and polluted forests.
 And why do you do this to me?
 You say for industrial growth and urban growth; Not enough room for people to live.
 Well, if you keep doing this to me, you won't live at ALL.
 You can't live without air or water; yet you slowly are destroying them.
 Well, here's to you, mankind. Thanks for NOTHING.

TOMORROW

What will tomorrow bring?
What has the past already brought?
For the past brings today; today brings
tomorrow,
What catch has time caught?

What does the womb of time carry?
Have the bygone days already conceived a crushing fate?
Are we on the eve of our last breath?
For life have we made our quest too late?

What shall save us?
Has a man come from the sun?
No, No man has come with an answer,
No, we have not yet won.

But, perhaps, tomorrow is up to us.
We make our own future with the birth of a day.
Have we made ourselves strong?
Do we have the strength to hold sway?

We have created war and tribulation.
We feed on death and fear.
We treasure hate and anger.
We store up pain so severe.

Is it too late to throw away our vain pride?
Have our minds been made too tainted?
Can we throw away
What hatred has painted?

Have we already pulled the string
To make the stars, the heavens fall?
Have we condemned hoy?
Does pride make us too tall?

There is so much violence,
On our home, our earth.
We can be sure of nothing,
And only the noblest of men dare to face
tomorrow's birth.

INVINCIBLE YOUTH

So death is just a part of the world that I see?
Well now what's it doing
in someone like me?
I know death's a "sickness"
that "old" people get.
It can't come to someone who hasn't lived yet.
Death comes when you're ready,
not as a surprise.
At least, it prepares you
before someone dies.
"She's been sick so long,"
or "He's getting so old,"
We all make presumptions,
but never so bold
as to think that a someone who seems so like me
could feel death before even getting to be
a doctor or lawyer,
a husband or wife.
Instead a "mistake" ends up
taking a life.
It all sends a chill down
my spine, with the truth that death, too, can come to Invincible Youth.

I love you much more than words can say.
I can't seem to make
the feeling go away.

The love we once
shared was great somehow.

I just can't believe you don't love me now.

I think about the times
we had and all that we've been through.

But now it's all over.
What do I do?

The love we shared seemed so strong.

I never dreamed something would go wrong.

But something happened somewhere down
the line.

Now I look at you
but you're no longer
mine.

Even though you say you love me, I wonder
if it's true.

I wonder if you
remember the special
things we used to do.

I still think the love we shared was special and true.

I want you to know I'll never forget and I'll always love you.

BECKI
THORPE

Once inside tomorrow, look back on yesterday, sweet memories of you will never fade away.

Now that I remember there always was a day I could come to you with sorrows,
you helped in every way.

If you had no advice to offer,
your eyes would kindly stare,
to reassure a comforting thought that you were always there.

I thank you for the laughter,
good times that we have shared.
Our friendship was one strengthened by worries together we bared.

The honesty we shared from the very start,
to pull from today and yesterday and
put them in my heart,
and even though we're far away
we'll never be apart.

The city of Sherman in '82
An All-American City, it's true.

A nice place to live but with troubles of a sort,

Bells and Luella may take us to court.

While taking their water and dumping our trash,

The final decision may cost us some cash.

The year has brought events of all kinds,

A tall building went up, a boxcar fell for us to find.

The July 4th celebration was enjoyed by all.

With fireworks and competition, all had a ball.

The city is popular from all walks of life,
Whether a visiting movie star or a politician with wife.

The businessmen find it worth their while
To build us a Sheridan Hotel with style.

The outcome of the election brought sadness at that,

White got elected, but lied, the BIG RAT!

PERSONALITIES

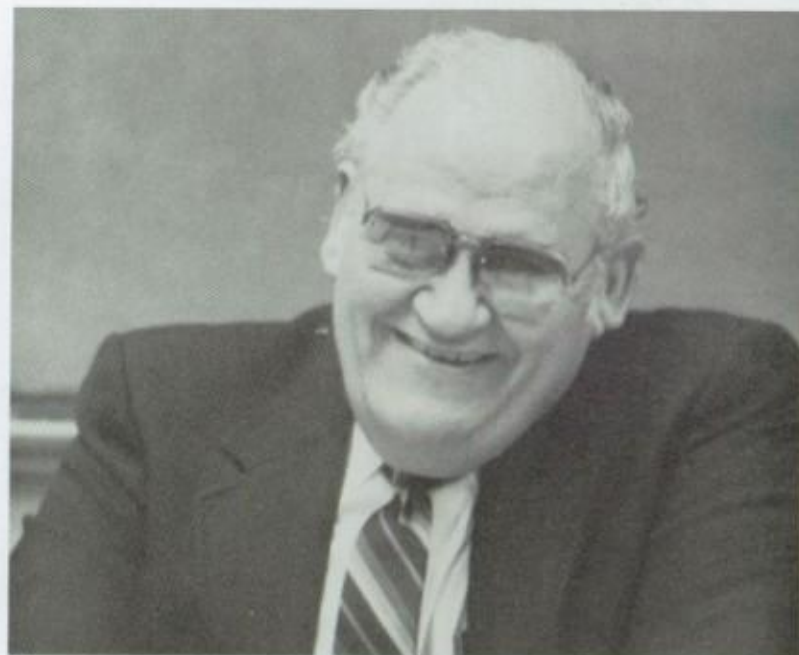

Board assures quality productive education

The main goal of the School Board is to assure that education is the best it can be in the Sherman Independent School District. This year the board enacted the new assertive discipline policy in an effort to improve education and decrease disciplinary problems.

One of the board's main duties is to interpret and make new policies. They represent the public as far as public schools are concerned.

The board meets on the second Tuesday of each month and the public is invited to attend and provide input on matters affecting students. The board consists of Dr. Wendell Hubbard, superintendent of schools; Darold Adami, president; and Charlotte Spears, vice president. Other members include Keith Brown, Sara Jackson, George McGahren, Dr. Geer McKee, and Percy Neblett.

Adami said, "I enjoy being able to exert positive influence on decisions which strengthen or improve our education system." He further commented, "Sherman is a great place to live and raise a family because many outstanding community leaders have worked hard through the years to make it that way. Each of us needs to do our part to preserve this heritage and improve our community in those ways in which each of us are suited."

New principal enthusiastic

The 1982-83 school year began with the welcoming of Dr. William Ritter as principal of Sherman High. Dr. Ritter came to SHS from Galveston Ball High School, Galveston, Texas.

Dr. Ritter received his Bachelor and Master's degrees from Arizona State University. He majored in mathematics and later received his Doctorate from North Texas State University.

Dr. Ritter believes SHS is close to what he anticipated. Although it was hard to predict what it would be like here, Dr. Ritter stated, "I think we have a great student body. There is a good relationship between students, faculty and administration."

Dr. Ritter also stated he would like to "encourage the students to set their goals higher."

Said Dr. Ritter, "Sherman High is the best school I've seen, and I'm not just saying that, it really is."

Vice-principals continue school's steady course

Like movie producers and directors in Hollywood, the vice-principals are the most important thing in keeping the show on the right track. The members of the crew include Mr. Charles Byler, Mrs. Nan Jones, Mr. Bill McClure and Mrs. Sandi Froese.

The vice-principals made some very important decisions and handled a large number of duties to keep the school running smoothly. Their jobs range from handling disciplinary problems to supervising extra-curricular activities. Mrs. Froese stated, "The role of the assistant principal goes beyond dealing with attendance and discipline problems. Through our involvement in the total school program, we try to be a support system for the classroom teachers, so they in turn can help students. Through good planning and organization, we attempt to anticipate and prevent minor and major problems. It is a challenging job with a lot of responsibility."

Some students were wary of vice-principals before they got to know them and realized they were just like everybody else. Mr. Bill McClure said, "I enjoy working with teachers and meeting new challenges every day. The variety of the job requirements and experiences make my job interesting."

Faculty

Teachers come from all different walks of life, but they have one common goal in mind: to produce the best men and women. The school year brought many changes to SHS as 13 new faculty members were added, the largest number in five years.

Each teacher has his or her own style of teaching, and each is successful in their own way. Through their hard work, many students will continue on to a higher, better level of education. On many occasions, after everyone else has gone home, a number of dedicated faculty members are still hard at work. Teachers are individuals who spend a great deal of time, effort, and patience, who advise, coach, help out and befriend.

The Sherman High faculty was kept busy training student teachers, sponsoring clubs, and dances, grading papers, and of course the dreaded hall and cafeteria duty. Ultimately, it would be fair to say that the vacation from June to August was well deserved. Teachers not only did a fine job in the classroom, but also shared in other activities. Some faculty members participated in school events ranging from assemblies to pep rallies, drama productions to class parties.

Whether their emphasis was on publications or athletic teams students received unconditional support from teachers. Faculty members worked together to help SHS students enjoy and remember their years of high school.

Counselors provide guidance, instruction

The counselors were a necessary gear in keeping SHS in good running condition. Their jobs ranged from changing schedules to helping students who had serious problems.

Other duties of the counselors included helping college bound students pick out a college and making sure they had the necessary requirements for a specific college. Although this took up much of their time they also helped students who planned to work after graduation, find jobs and take the right courses for a particular field.

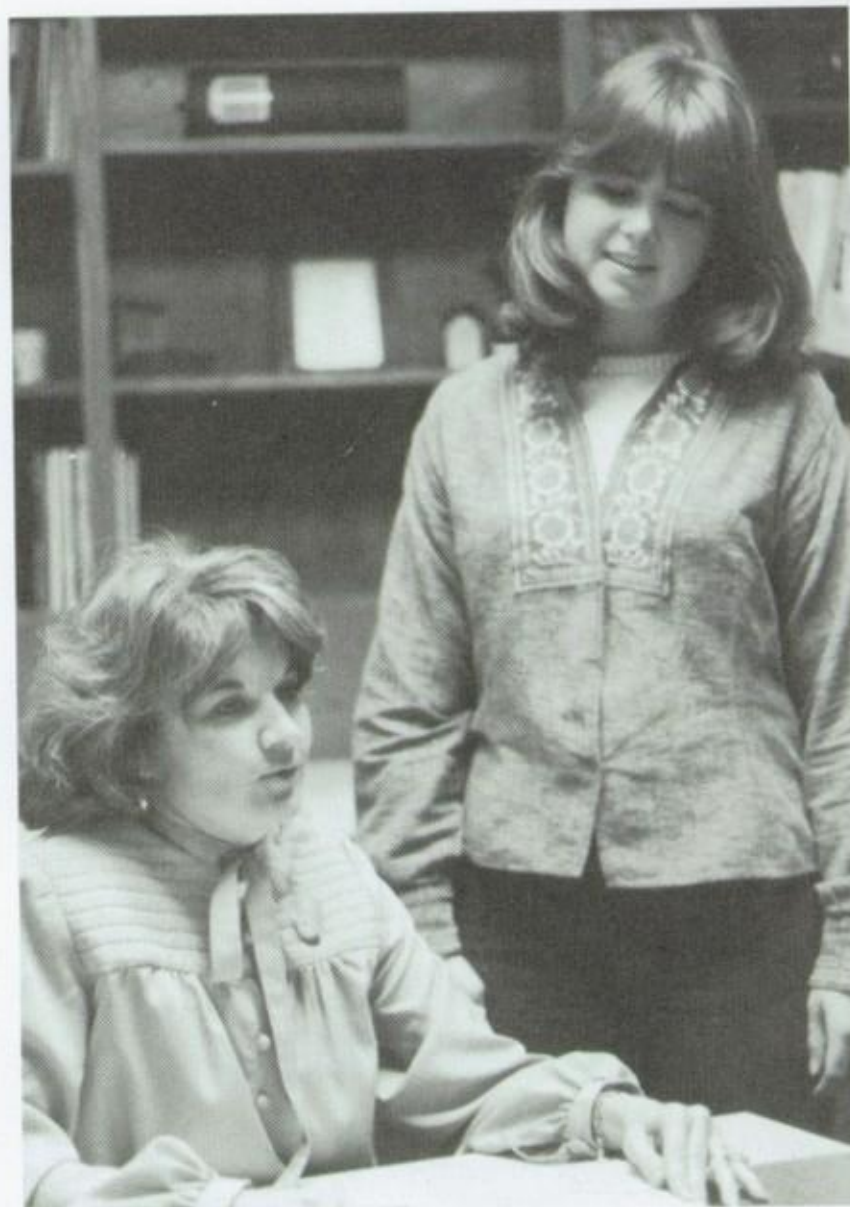

Counselors felt their jobs were very serious, but they still took time to be friends, as well as leaders, with their students. Mrs. Evelyn Low, head counselor, said, "There are a lot of people, helping other people at SHS. Counselors are an important part of this network."

Job versatility enhances secretarial work

"Good morning, Sherman High School, may I help you?" From answering the telephone to filling out yellow slips, a secretary's job was never done. Other jobs of the secretaries included typing, delivering messages, filing and directing students to the right location. Parents also found their presence very helpful when trying to locate students. Mrs. Frances Johnson also wrote checks for the school's activity fund and kept the books balanced.

Most secretaries liked their jobs and were fond of being around young adults, as well as parents and faculty members. Mrs. Pat Crow, Dr. William Ritter's secretary, said, "I love my job because of the versatility. Even though I have routine jobs to perform, every day brings a new job to do. I enjoy working with young adults and the association that it gives me."

Freshmen

The freshman year was one to reflect on, as it was full of discovery. The change from Middle School to High School was a big step for some and the feelings of anticipation and apprehension were at times overwhelming.

It was a learning process: discovering new challenges, being offered new activities and developing and growing in a new environment. "The school is too big and needs more windows," commented freshman Amber Sprouse.

For those who had never experienced it, high school presented a world of unexpected happenings and new ideas.

The class of 1986 launched their high school career well organized. Attempting to break the stereotype of "frosh," this group of beginners elected class officers: Todd Estes, president; Tamalyn Graham, vice president; and Monique Green, secretary. Despite piles of homework and numerous difficulties, the class of '86 managed to survive, and thus began their climb towards seniority.

Sophomores

Sophomores found themselves more self-assured as they started their second year in high school. Many of them became more involved in school activities. Several sophomores involved in the Glad program, athletics, and who had perfect attendance were recognized in a class meeting this fall. Dr. William Ritter, principal, was the guest speaker at this event. The class officers constructed a float for the Homecoming parade. Traci Craig commented, "I like being a sophomore because upperclassmen treat you with more respect."

Being able to drive was fun for most sophomores. Cynthia Melugin said, "It's great having a license. It gives me more freedom to do what I want."

Juniors

Juniors made some important decisions this year. One of these includes the selection of senior rings. Dan Hanrahan replied, "Senior rings are a symbol that the class of '84 will rule Sherman High next year."

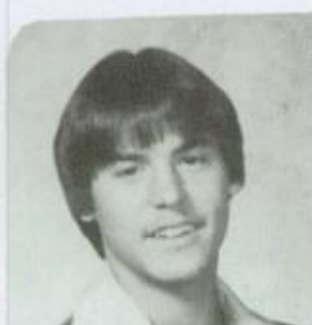

The junior class officers organized a Toga Party after the Denton football game. Many students also took the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test. Several students found themselves more concerned with grades and involved in more activities.

Teresa Davis commented, "It's nice to finally be an upperclassman. The year is going by fast and I can't wait for next year." Von Neita Akers said, "It's good to be a junior because you get more privileges since you're older. You also get treated with more respect from underclassmen."

Seniors

The senior year in high school is the result of eleven years of struggle. It is the final stepping stone into the adult world. Feelings of pride, joy, and self-satisfaction fill each senior's heart as they receive the senior parking sticker, buy their final yearbook, are measured for their cap and gown, and order their graduation announcements.

The senior pep rally is the time when the class of '83 showed its spirit and unity to the school and community. Yet the senior year is more than just activities. It is a time when values, morals, and goals are polished. Seniors are no longer children — carrying lunch boxes, laughing and playing at recess, exiting without worries. They are young adults faced with adult feelings, responsibilities, love, pain, worry, loneliness, anxiety, discouragement, excitement, and hope. "For me being a senior represents the greatest success in my life as of yet. It says that I have conquered all the major difficulties of an education and growing up, surpassed these, and started my life on the road to maturity and purpose. The word senior just says, 'I can do it,'" commented Jerry Roberts. Yes, the senior year is more than just the twelfth year in education — it is experiences and memories one will cherish in their heart forever. The senior saying seems to sum up all feelings. We, the totally awesome class of 1983, Believe that we are the best to ever be, We back the Bearcats all the way, Now it's time, we're here to say — What it is, What it be — We're the Seniors '83, Guarantee it! SENIORS '83.

Organizations Give Freedom of Choice

Just as pep rallies keep school spirit alive, the organizations at Sherman High keep the student body united.

Clubs proved to be the basic togetherness of the school. Every year with the increase of students each organization grows in its own way. The organizations gave students the chance to socialize, meet new friends, and a sense of responsibility. Fund raising meetings and athletic competition were all a part of making the school year go by a little faster.

Let's Get America Rolling!

New cars ... New trucks ... Good to Look At. Good to Drive. Good for America and Americans. The U.S. auto industry accounts for one out of six jobs nationally.

Let's get America rolling. With new car and truck orders that put Americans back to work.

And keep dollars in America.

Buy a car or truck built in the U.S. Get good value and a high-quality product. Boost the economy, and support the industry that's the backbone of our country.

WITH OUR BONUS PROGRAM, WE'LL PAY YOU TO SAVE ENERGY.

You're hearing it from all sides now. Save energy. Conserve. Use less and you'll save more. Well it's all true, but we're taking it a step further, by writing you a check.

We're doing this because when you buy a high efficiency heat pump, air conditioning system or window unit, you'll be using less energy. That saves you money and saves us money. So we're passing the savings along to you.

Your dealer should have all the details and can help you select the right system for you. For more information about our Bonus Program give the energy experts at TP&L a call.

Remember, saving energy is good for your pocketbook. And we can prove it with a check.

Debbie Arndt, part time model and respiratory assistant.

The individuals pictured above discovered career opportunities in health care while they were still in high school. They found that there are over 50 different health-related occupations at Texoma Medical Center, many of which require only a high school diploma. The health care industry provides secure employment for hundreds of Texoma area citizens who take a great deal of pride in a meaningful, beneficial profession.

We're building a reputation on innovation!

The student body was a great sea of faces, values, and personalities. But this ocean had a common bond — it was united by a single thought called independence.

The ability to be sui generis was a very special quality possessed by Sherman High School students. No two people were alike. We shared similar experiences, yet all reacted differently. A wide variety of people existed at SHS. We were beauties and learned men, artists, and athletes, philosophers and comedians. Although each of us were individually distinguished by our personalities, we all reached for that ultimate goal, strove for perfection, and reached for the stars, wanting fame. In this action we all left our special contribution to mankind. On the other side of the issue, the human brain did not always function best by itself. We often coordinated our skills with others to complete jobs. Our own efficiency was often enhanced by uniting with friends and colleagues.

SHS has many different kinds of alliance. In sports we look towards others to take over when our personal energies are exhausted. In clubs and organizations we combined our efforts to produce excellence. Students and teachers depended on each other for support. Friends depended on partnership for fulfillment and pooled their wisdom with satisfaction.

Although cooperation varied, it is evident that we had the ability to work side by side. Working in unity and agreement established faith and trust in the people surrounding us. At SHS we constantly found new ways to harmonize relationships and by cooperation we learned to respect and lean on our fellowman.

Determination is what set us apart, and helped us to establish an identity. The unity of the school was supplemented by iron-willed, strong minded people who participated with vigor in what they believed in. Life can be forceful and demanding. To survive we often had to run that extra mile or add an extra paragraph, even when our conscience refused. Because of our unification, we had the incentive to work, sweat, and study, just a little harder. It was the training and conditioning of the human spirit. Whether persistence was a quiet race for ourselves or for mankind, determination will always be in the dreams of who we are and what we hope to be.

Editor's Note:

Our goal before the first layout was drawn, or the first picture was taken was to have the best yearbook ever produced. As you turn the pages of this book, we hope we have reached our goal. The countless hours of dedication and energy was spent on the yearbook, because we believed in you, the student body.

Struggling to pull pages together was often a real hassle, but the student satisfaction will make it all worthwhile. Reflected in the next 408 pages are student achievements, failures, goals, and activities. It shows the persistence of faculty and students alike as they succeed in tackling another year. We hope it represents the special memories you want to cherish.

This year has been a real challenge for me. Learning new techniques, making new friends, constantly pressuring staff members, and feeling satisfaction of a completed book.

Now that the year is drawing to a close, I wish to thank the people who put in a helping hand and made this book possible: Ed McMeans, Taylor's most understanding rep., the SHS faculty and administration, friends for their ever-standing encouragement, and most of all Mrs. Paula Morgan for her patience, endurance, and leadership she showed in her support. And to my special friends, the Athenian Staff members, thanks for the memories and good times shared.

Glenda - well it has been a kickass year.
we've had some really hard times together.
I hope that our friendship can last forever.
I can't believe this year is already over, can you.
It makes me kinda sad that we wasted it by arguing so much. maybe we have learned something. You will be the first person to know when Jeff and I are married. We are planning it for July 4, 1983. I think we can make it. If not I'll need a lot of comforting and I hope that you'll be there for me. OK.

next time you get into a fight you better learn how to fight back. Haven't you learned from me that you can't let anybody walk all over you?

I'll never forget all the fun we had last summer. But we should learn to keep out of trouble when we're together. Call me sometime this summer. I mean it. - Before July 4) And we'll get together and do something my grandparents are moving back to Sherman so we can go to the trailer park and go swimming. ~~That~~ that sounds like fun?

Glenda,

Well, I don't know what to say.

We met in the funniest way. I still can't see us together, we just seem each other in school. I never thought that me and you would be together.

All I have to say is, that I'm sure in hell glad ~~that~~ that I'm with you.

You make me happy all the time even thought the bad times. There one thing I want you to know so don't get a big head. But you are the best thing or one for any guy. But to me you are the best know matter what. I hope we have alot more and better times. After all we got two - three more years of this great time. You mean alot to me. I would be a fool to leave you.

Always yours,
love ya lots

Heena,

I know we had our ups and downs since we met, but we will be good friends in the near future. The only reason I talked about you is cause Jay talks about James. And I really don't mean what I say, I just say it to get Jay mad, and it does work so this summer let's get together and leave James and Jay home. And let's party! Stay sweet

I seem to feel a little scared because we still have our friendship but I feel sad because Sharon is not included. It's hard to imagine a summer without having us three together. We will get together soon and go over and see her. Just like it use to be. Well I'll start closing now. When you read this 2, 5, 10 or even 25 years from now why don't you call me up. Look around Sherman and the Lake. I'll be somewhere (on my parents house 8923470) next year I'll be graduating. — I wonder what-what the hell it's going to be like not going to school or sharing a locker with you. I'm just plumb scared. Remember. I love you — as much as I ever loved Tina Taulace. By you know it has got to be pretty special to me! right!
